What is the University?

Alone it is nothing more than 56 limestone buildings located on 313 acres of land. A student is one of 12,716 to enroll in any of 4000 different classes. He and other students from 50 states and 49 foreign countries consume 150 dozen Union donuts daily and 8,342 gallons of beer weekly. A student may be one of 107 individuals standing in the Sar-Saw line at registration.

As a place the University offers more than a numerized, computerized location to spend a few years of your life. What does the University have to offer?

The university offers a place for learning. While facts, figures, and concepts appear to be important in classroom, laboratory, or research situations, the student learns as much from his own maturation and exposure to a myriad of viewpoints and personalities encountered on university campuses.

University opportunities also include enjoyment.

In no other situation are so many people of similar ages assembled together with the same goal in mind.

Through living groups, organizations and friendships, students emphasize the importance of university environment outside the classroom.

The University is a place to compete.

Academically, socially and athletically, the university is recognized as a center of competition.

Individuals compete within their own minds each time they realize a viewpoint:

which is better; the old or the new?

University environment affords many students with a place to participate. Through participation, extra talents are cultivated and interests in the major fields are developed. Each student takes an important step toward making himself recognized as an individual when he elects to take part.

Commencement marked the first presentation of the Alumni Medallion, to be given annually to noted alums.

Faculty members lead the procession marking the 1969 commencement, the first to be staged at KSU Stadium.

Congratulations and a charge to the graduating class were given by President James A. McCain at 1969 Commencement exercises. McCain also announced distinguished faculty awards to four faculty representatives.

K-State alumni who graduated in 1919 held their golden class reunion

May 8-10, 1969. All those present became members of the Golden K-

Club and ate at the All-Grad Luncheon where President McCain talked.

2,536 awarded degrees in 1969

With a record 2,536 degrees conferred in 1969, the spring commencement exercises were performed for the first time in the new KSU Stadium. The May 31 commencement program was the 106th in K-State history.

President James A. McCain delivered a charge to the graduating students and also conferred the 1,519 degrees to the undergraduate students. 1,017 higher degrees were conferred.

Thomas Palmer, senior class president, presented the 156 graduates who received scholastic honors for their outstanding academic achievement.

Included in the program were addresses from Governor Robert Docking and the Board of Regents.

Ceremony procedures were enhanced by the conferring of an honorary doctorate degree to Maurice Johnson, Louisville, Ky., who played a major role in the establishment of a feed technology program at K-State.

Commencement week marks the time when many alumni return to campus to visit with faculty and students and note the changes made since their graduation. Engineering grads attended informal receptions.

With their commencement programs in hand, candidates for undergraduate degrees listen to Governor Docking's address. The University Concert Band provided music for the graduation exercises and program.

Degree candidates filled the ground level of the field house. The colored tassels on the graduation caps, noting different colleges, were switched from the right side to the left side by the grads after receiving degrees.

Attendance optional for 1970 graduation exercises

After receiving his doctorate degree from President James A. McCain, a student receiving a graduate degree is hooded by the dean of his college.

Four or more years of study were climaxed when 1,175 undergraduates, 73 veterinary students and 80 master's and doctoral graduates received their respective degrees in June.

Greetings were offered by Governor Docking and the Board of Regents. Honorary degrees were conferred on three outstanding personages by President McCain. McCain's charge to the class was answered by Stan Weir, senior class president, with a statement of the class's obligation to themselves, the University and the country.

Diplomas were mailed to graduates as commencement exercises were optional for the first time in K-State's history. Approximately 90 per cent of the seniors attended while only doctoral candidates were required.

Youth urged to 'care for earth'

Environmental Awareness Week 1970 was April 5-11. It began with a Sunday rally and dance followed by a speaker, Tom Dahl, Secretary of the Interior. Walter Hickel spoke on Monday and challenged the nation's youth to "care for the earth," declaring that pollution is "not just something politically popular to talk about."

Seminars such as "Population — Everybody's Baby," photography and poster contests, a film festival and an Environmental Town Meeting gave everyone a chance to become involved.

Drawing the most publicity was the Can-A-Second Marathon which collected over 350,000 cans off of Manhattan's streets. Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity won the event by collecting in excess of 106,000 cans. Classes such as Man's Physical World II labs, worked together to arrange a pollution exhibit which was displayed in Cardwell hall.

College living groups and other community groups entered in the Can-A-Second contest to collect the many cans discarded beside local streets.

Speaking to an audience of 4,000, Interior Secretary Hickel, a Landon lecturer, challenged them to "care for the earth" by pollution control.

Walter Hickel, followed by a chain of Volkswagens, rode in an electric car from the airport to campus. Both cars are low in their pollution effect.

Supporters for the control of pollution in the environment show their concern during an address by Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel.

Peaceful student protest follows Kent State killings, spread of war

More than 40,000 Americans killed in VietNam, four dead Kent State University students and the spreading of the Indochina War were the issues peacefully protested by 2,000 students, faculty, administration and townspeople on May 6, 1970.

Protestors gathered at noon in front of Anderson hall to show dissatisfaction toward President Nixon's decision to expand the war in Cambodia and to participate in a funeral procession for Kent State students alleged to have been shot by National Guardsmen during a war protest riot.

Before pallbearers carried the symbolic black coffin through the University, protestors sang and listened to speakers plead for peace and an end to the growing war.

Then, the funeral procession wound its way through the campus, ending on a hill across from the ROTC building. There, the coffin was burned in hopes of a quick and just peace.

Student and faculty strike is urged by a selection of banners and signs.

Fred Clemente, political science instructor, explains the Asian opinion of U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia and the reaction of student protest.

Concerned with the expanded U.S. involvement in Asia and in protest of the four deaths at Kent State, hundreds gathered for a massive strike.

To commemorate the war dead and those who died in campus revolts, a coffin was burned on the hill across from the Military Science Building.

Kansas State University Model United Nations

Three general debates on disarmament and Middle East, membership for Red China, strict race discrimination in South Africa and VietNam caused frequent discussions with delegates to K-State's Model UN.

Delegation members discussed key issues prior to voting. As part of the legislation that was discussed, the assembly denounced Israel's activities concerning the events in the Middle East conflict.

Cease fire in VietNam was urged in a session of the Model UN. The resolution, introduced by Nigeria, passed after a long debate over the issue.

In informal talks, delegates decided self-determination was the solution.

Pep Council coordinates ceremonies for halftimes Performing four numbers. Shawnee Mission East's Drill Team made use of pompons, canes and flags at the half time during the game with OU.

Organizing the halftimes for football and basketball games was the responsibility of the Pep Coordinating Council. At the beginning of the year, the Council received numerous letters from high schools in the state indicating an interest in performing during a halftime. No high school is invited for two consecutive years.

At least one basketball halftime is reserved each year for the K-Steppers and Pompon girls. Campus groups were allotted time for free-throw contests, judo demonstrations, gymnastics demonstrations and crowning of FMOC. Appearing as the high school choices were drill teams from the Abilene and Shawnee Mission East high schools. Each home basketball game had different types of entertainment.

Football halftimes were determined before the start of the football season. Band Day and Cheerleaders Day were the responsibility of Pep Coordinating Council while Chimes, the junior women's honorary, conducted the halftime for the annual Parent's Day.

As the clock started, the fans at the 35th annual Band Day game faced a rain soaked field. The rain continued during the football game and for the first time in 10 years, the classic half time ceremony was cancelled.

As an annual Parent's Day program sponsored by Blue Key and Chimes,

Dr. and Mrs. Larry Bunker were announced as K-State's honorary parents for 1969 during the half time of the football game with Penn State.

Larry Dixon, 1970 FMOC, accepts the award from the last year's winner.

Union caters to Manhattan, University community

Union facilities remained available for use throughout the year despite construction activities on the new addition. Serving as a cultural center for the University and the surrounding area, the Union hosted conferences and dignitaries, provided many activities and supported different union committees in their work.

Union Trips and Tours sponsored various trips to ski areas and also Easter trips. Other committees sponsored entertainment programs, controversial speakers and yearly activities such as the annual Harlequinade.

Several art exhibits were scheduled during the year. Faculty art shows, an exhibit of space art and a series on art appreciation were held in the art gallery. In February, a special showing of African art was held in conjunction with Black Awareness Week.

Students engage in an informal card game in the Union before the Danny Cox concert. The Union provides facilities for bowling and pool games.

sponsible for the displays in the gallery and Wednesday's Pointless Pics.

Bowling students take advantage of the enlarged bowling facilities at the Union. Expanded from eight to sixteen lanes, the recreation area is situated under both the present Union facilities and also the new addition.

Bill Cosby, a popular comedian, received an ovation for quips about his family. Nebraska's Men's Glee Club also gave an exchange performance.

Mason Williams, musician and poet, gave a performance at Parent's Day.

Top rated performers stage campus entertainment

David Clayton-Thomas, a member of Blood, Sweat and Tears band, sings to one of the largest crowds ever to witness a concert in the fieldhouse.

Coffee houses and concerts accented the season for the Union Campus Entertainment Committee.

First in the coffee house series was Danny Cox and Brewer and Shipley, brought to K-State by the New Faces Coffee House Circuit.

Mason Williams and Jennifer Warren were next in the series of entertainers and drew an audience of 3,000.

Bill Cosby received a standing ovation at the end of his performance at which he joked about his adolescence, his marriage and his children.

Following Cosby, Blood, Sweat and Tears made their first appearance at K-State. Performing before the second largest audience in K-State's history, the nine member band blended rock music with their jazz variations.

Donald Leace, a black folk singer, combined music and comedy in his two shows in the Union ballroom.

Rated fifth on the list of the top vocal groups in 1969 by a national survey, the Friends of Distinction presented a concert at K-State on April 21.

Jennifer Warren, an ex-cast member of "Hair," sings with Mason Williams.

Men's Glee Club provides entertainment prior to the Bill Cosby concert.

Brenda Starstein, a reporter for the "Cowllegian," informs a disbelieving staff how she produced their paper. Gamma Phis and Phi Delts joined to satirize campus newspapers and the drawbacks of being an "ag school."

Van Zile residents depict various aspects of society's conflicts in "The Banner of Purple and White," their dramatic production for 1970's HQ.

Mafia takes over to win trophies

Pi Beta Phi and Sigma Chi made a clean sweep of the four top trophies awarded for Harlequinade 1970. The first place skit, "You Can't Beat Muther Hood and Apple Pi, or I'll Take a Dry Manhattan," told the story of a New York Mafia mob's infiltration of an American university.

In the winning cast were Janice Latham, Chris Cutro and Sabra Eastin embrace after announcement of best actress, best actor and best choreography for the HQ skits.

Second place went to Van Zile hall for their production of "The Banner of Purple and White."

Other skits in the annual Harlequinade were "Hair, There and Everywhere, or You Can't Tell the Aggies Without a Program," by Gamma Phi Beta and Phi Delta Theta, and "I am Curious (Alice)," by Smurthwaite and the men of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

In Tau Kappa Epsilon's and Smurthwaite's skit, the queen of hearts tells Alice, freshman coed, of the danger that could befall her in college life.

Trophy winners, Janice Latham, Sabra Eastin and Chris Cutro find that they earned best actress, choreography and actor for their HQ comedy.

"We'll bribe teachers in class, you'll find that crime's a gas," chanted the gunmolls and gangsters of the fast-moving Pi Phi-Sigma Chi mafia.

William Lederer, the author of "The Ugly American," spoke of the future and the role of the student in it. He spoke as a News and Views lecturer.

John Kolish exhibits the phenomena of the human's mind at a presentation Dec. 8, 1969 in Williams Auditorium. The Vienna-born hypnotist was backed by the Union Program Council and News and Views Committee.

Union sponsors noted speakers

Subjects ranging from hypnosis to self-defense were discussed by speakers appearing at the University under the jurisdiction of the Union News and Views Committee.

George Plimpton, the first speaker of the year, discussed his exploits in sports and showed his slides.

Appearing after Plimpton, William Lederer, author of "The Ugly American," conducted a free dialogue with the audience.

John Kolish, the third speaker and internationally known hypnotist, explained and then demonstrated the methods of hypnotism. Hypnotized subjects shivered when they were told and one described a recent birthday.

Sponsored jointly by the News and Views Committee and AWS, Fredric Storaska spoke on self-defense for women. Storaska described various techniques for discouraging assaults.

Robert Wells, Federal Communications Commission member, gave his opinion of "Biased News Coverage" at a lecture on Controversial Issues.

Andre Kole, illusionist, expounds on frauds that are found in magic. He also related his personal convictions about miracles performed by Christ.

Actively showing their disagreement of U.S. policy in VietNam, students and townspeople marched as part of the October moratorium day events.

Students march in moratorium

Focused primarily toward the awakening of student and faculty awareness, K-State's VietNam war moratorium in October was attended by 3,000 Manhattan participants.

Students, faculty and town residents gathered at the University, marched to downtown Manhattan and later discussed the United States' involvement in Southeastern Asia and the various aspects of the VietNam War.

Before beginning their trek downtown, marchers heard Acting-President John Chalmers deliver remarks in front of Anderson hall. Following the march, members were addressed in City Park by religious leaders speaking about their individual beliefs.

Many participants of the October moratorium continued their activities later in the semester by taking part in the Washington, D. C. peace demonstration, holding a peace fair and setting up numerous discussion groups.

Letters and telegrams to the Department of Defense, the congress and President Nixon were signed by students at the November moratorium.

Attracting the interest of townspeople as well as the university community, participants in the Moratorium make their way through Manhattan.

Following a speech from John Chalmers, acting-president, moratorium marchers started their peace march at Anderson hall, continued through Aggieville, downtown and to the City Park for memorial services at noon.

Offering courses and lectures in an extended curriculum, the University for Man program tries to expand its 1,200 enrollment by recruiting in the Union. UFM classes such as ecology correspond to the students' interest.

Enrollment in classes in UFM began soon after second semester started.

Instruction in basic fundamentals of bridge was one of the 75 UFM classes. Beginners and those wishing to improve their playing took the class.

Free university expands curriculum and enrollees

Begun in the fall of 1967 with only two classes, University for Man, free university on the K-State campus, has grown to its present size encompassing more than 75 classes.

Through its non-credit, tuition-free courses, the UFM allows people to think and discover concepts for themselves. UFM is growing, as more than 1,200 high school students, undergraduates, graduates and community residents have taken part in the program.

Size of classes vary with Politics of Ecology having the largest enrollment in 1969-70. Other specialized courses with smaller groups included international cooking, horseshoeing and various classes dealing with human and family relationships.

Because of the growing interest in their endeavor, the central office staff expanded their headquarters by the addition of a meeting room and library to aid the volunteer instructors in locating additional class materials.

provides more than 70 courses dealing with areas selected by students.

References to the past administration were excluded from his tentative text on the problems facing the US in the '70's by Hubert H. Humphrey.

His list of problems included pollution, VietNam, racism and poverty.

Lecturers speak on prime issues

Noted Americans spoke on major issues at the Landon Lecture Series held in honor of former governor and presidential candidate Alfred M. Landon. Issues ranged from ecology to space travel and placed emphasis on student involvement and awareness.

Fall semester speakers included Edward Brooke, U.S. Senator speaking on the arms race and Arthur Clarke, author of "2001: Space Odyssey."

Former Vice-President Hubert Humphrey spoke before 7,000 persons. Reviewing the legislation of the '60's, he characterized it as redirecting America. He also pointed out the new problems facing America in the '70's.

Secretary of Interior Walter Hickel spoke on ecology at the start of Environmental Awareness Week and Bishop Fulton J. Sheen rounded out the series with a lecture on forms of love.

Archbishop of Newport and third of the Landon Lecturers this year, Fulton Sheen told his audience of three forms of love present in our society.

Senator Edward Brooke talks to his audience following his Landon Lecture on the national security expenses.

Walter Hickel answers a K-Stater's question about what university students can do to improve the environment.

Arthur Clarke, speaker for the convocations series, predicts cattle ranching will be banned within the next ten years due to methods of production. Clarke voiced opinions of the technology of the future in his talk.

Sharing, helping, caring

The old house at 1011 Laramie Street represents a new concept in student living at K-State. In this house, 10 men and women live communally, sharing their daily experiences with each other and proving that individuals can create a constructive alternative life-style.

Many other education-reform and community-assistance programs also saw daylight here. A "crisis center" quartered in the basement provided the community with counseling by telephone. Persons with emotional troubles, legal problems or other hassles were able to find help by dialing a number, connecting them with one of the volunteers who staffed the center every night.

A close bondage has developed among the residents. They regard themselves as a family, rather than as so many residents of a house. But the family has no junior or senior members — all members are equals.

Visitors are frequent at the Laramie house. Some of the UFM seminars meet at the house while the ten residents have made numerous friends.

Members of the commune respond to questions concerning their living arrangements by saying they actually eat their own cooking. Schedules state cooking and clean-up responsibilities to share the family tasks.

Kamala Nair, an Indian ambassador, spoke during the Gandhi Centenary Celebration as part of the '69 International Week. "The World — A Community," the week's theme, was also shown in a fashion and talent show.

ICC sponsors show to improve cultural awareness

International Coordinating Council, composed of 35 ethnic organizations on campus, sponsored a talent show during the spring. The purpose of the multicultural talent show was to help bring together all foreign students at K-State while giving the University a chance to view customs, fashions, dances and songs from other countries.

Nations represented in the show included the Philippines, Israel, Africa, Puerto Rico and Korea. Funds raised from the talent show are to be used in the future for the building of an international center on campus.

Religious activities at K-State centered around the 18 inter-denominational foundations and centers. Representing almost all Christian, Jewish, Islamic and Hindu faiths, various groups aimed at involving students with the people around them, rediscovering their faiths and facing their day to day problems.

Bruce Woods' draft counseling service provides K-State students with needed information about changing laws and his rights and status level.

Paul Shull, director of bands at K-State, supervises all band activities and events and instructs several groups.

Phil Hewitt, the assistant director of bands, directs performances of the Wildcat Marching Band and Pep Band.

Colorful performances spark athletic competition

Sporting new purple and white uniforms and 220 members, the K-State Marching Band performed at every home football game and at three away games. In a contest to select a band to play at pro football's "Super Bowl," K-State's Marching Band was judged the best band out of over 300 bands from around the nation who submitted films for the judging.

Helping to make the halftimes even more enjoyable were the K-Steppers. Led by the featured twirler, Nancy Schneiders, K-Steppers twirled their way into an invitation to perform at a halftime for a Dallas Cowboys football game during the 1970 season.

Eight girls, serving both as cheerleaders and as pompon girls, joined with six male cheerleaders plus a yell-leader to cheer the fans on at games.

Pompon girls, selected by tryouts in the spring of 1969, developed routines which they performed to the accompaniment of the band's pep songs. All the cheerleaders attended many of the away games as well as all games played on the home fields and courts.

Band members drew names and exchanged Christmas toys. Gifts were opened and then sent to the fire department for children of Manhattan.

Yell leader Larry Dixon spirits a student gathering before the basketball team leaves for the regional tournament. The Big Eight champions fell to New Mexico State but beat Houston 107-98 to win third place honors.

Players present 14 student plays

Fourteen plays were presented by K-State Players in 1969-70. The first two, "The Lesson" and "The Chairs," were presented by students during the summer school session.

Two children's programs, "Rumpelstiltskin" and "The Magic Isle," were written by Wesley Van Tassle, a member of the K-State speech department.

Also given were "The Miser," "The Beautiful People," "The Field God" and "Dr. Gray Matter's Dilemma."

Highlighting the year was the presentation during the spring semester of two groups of three one-act plays written by students. The first group included "Jacobs' Ladder," written by Deanna Tressan; "Midnight Acres," by Mike Marks; and "The Elephant Gun," by George Gray.

Presented by the Players, the second grouping of performances included "The Sound of Laughter," written by Ed Mangelsdorf; "The Sofa," written by Kirk Lovell; and "The Fetus Pig," a play written by Dave Gallemore.

Bill Kammer, an intellectual Frenchman, writes a speech to be given to world leaders in Ionesco's play "The Chairs," presented early in the year.

Suicide induced by a kleptomania experience concludes "The Sofa." Judith Wesley as Connie is discovered by the villain while Berney Williams as Richard, the kleptomaniac, acknowledges his illness and berates himself.

Folk comedy, "Jacobs Ladder," concerns an old Kansas farmer who has been miserly all of his life. His wife holds him prisoner in a well until he realizes his mistakes and alters his way with money and mode of living.

Imaginary tuba playing disturbs the mad writer in "The Elephant Gun."

Satire on heaven and hell, Micheal Mark's "Midnight Acres," depicts hell as a country club. After he defects to hell, Jesus thinks of smoking pot.

Presented for children, "The Magic Isle," entertains with spells of magic and the audience's participation. A student wrote the lyrics and music.

Written by William Soroyan and directed by graduate students, "Beautiful People" told of a family living on a check from the welfare office.

College entrance examinations in a one act play entitled "The Lesson," serve as a vehicle for absurdities to portray today's communication gap.

Manhattan mayor, Mrs. Irl Yeo, begins Black Awareness Week activity by signing a paper asking the public to be aware of all men's equalities.

Percy Sutton, the former attorney for the late Malcolm X, spoke on racism and politics as an activity in conjunction with the Black Awareness Week.

BAW tells need for new insight

Students feasted on a soul food banquet and attended a fashion show, a ball at which a black queen and king were crowned and a modern drama production during the second annual Black Awareness Week, Feb. 15-21.

BAW stressed upon those attending, the need for understanding and insight into the problems of racism.

"A Day of Absences," a contemporary drama, was presented along with a special film entitled, "Nothing But A Man," and "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me A Nigger." Danny Cox, a black folk singer from Kansas City, performed a special concert.

Two special speakers were presented during the week. Nathan Johnson, a graduate of K-State who is now a prominent black architect in Detroit, spoke on the "Problems of Black Professionals" and Edward Coffman, a visiting professor, talked about "The Black Soldier in American History."

Memorial services in honor of Malcolm X were held in Cardwell hall and the Afro Ball and crowning were held at the National Guard Armory.

"A Day of Absence," a play presented by the Contemporary Players of Kansas City, was one of the planned activities for Black Awareness Week.

Rev. Murray leads the Eighth Street Adult Choir of Kansas City, Mo., in a black gospel service, the first activity for Black Awareness Week.

Presented in conjunction with Black Awareness Week, Danny Cox staged his second performance at the University. His home is in Kansas City.

Mechanical Engineering Open House displays showed various areas of involvement including pollution and the instruments that engineers use.

Engineers host annual exhibits

Engineering Open House was the 46th annual session at K-State. The open house, "Engineering Foundation for Our Future," was presented for the first time in conjunction with All-University Open House.

Elections for St. Pat and St. Patricia were run by Sigma Tau, engineering honorary, during the week.

Tours of the exhibits were given on Friday and Saturday. The exhibits included Robby the Robot, a pollution control display, a paper airplane contest and a soybean harvester developed by students in the college.

Closing of Engineers' Week was the Open House Banquet Saturday night at which St. Pat, Wayne Ross, and St. Patricia, Rita Riescheck, were honored.

was made by the pageant judges. All the finalists were K-State students.

Winner selected from 12 finalists

Linda Hooper was named Miss Manhattan-K-State after competing in talent, swimsuit and evening gown competition. Miss Hooper sang a selection from West Side Story as her entry in the talent competition. The recipient of a $300 scholarship and trip to the Miss Kansas state pageant at Pratt, Miss Hooper was one of the 12 finalists.

Competition for Miss Manhattan-K-State began with the entries of approximately 50 girls nominated by their campus living groups or by a civic organization in Manhattan. Following initial tryouts, the field was narrowed until 12 finalists were selected. The winner and the runners-up were selected by the judges on a basis of their beauty, poise and talent.

Purple signifies mood of events

"Purple Power — Here to Stay," the theme selected for 1969 Homecoming, was illustrated by alumni, faculty and students throughout the week's activities. A traditional event included the selection of a Homecoming queen and candidates. Susan Haymaker, representing Delta Delta Delta, presided over homecoming activities.

K-State Players presented the production, "The Magic Isle," in the Purple Masque Theatre. Ending the week's events of 1969 Homecoming was the football game between the Wildcats and the Oklahoma University Sooners.

Sponsored by Blue Key, the senior men's honorary, the house decoration awards were made the night before the Homecoming game. The trophies went to Putnam hall, independent women; Smith Scholarship, independent men; Sigma Nu, fraternity division; and Alpha Delta Pi, sorority division.

Congratulations are offered to a frat man by Arnelle Hilgenfeld in honor of the placement his house received in Homecoming decorations.

Second place homecoming decoration honors in the fraternity division went to the Lambda Chi Alpha men. The tissue and wood display, "Cats

Susan Haymaker
1969 Homecoming Queen

Susan Haymaker voted 39th Homecoming Queen

Nominated by her living group, Delta Delta Delta sorority, Miss Haymaker was interviewed by members of Blue Key. Semifinalists were chosen on the basis of these interviews.

Queen finalists were selected after they presented Homecoming preview skits. Miss Haymaker's skit was titled "Will Obnoxious Orvill Overcome" or "Susie (Sigh)".

Miss Haymaker's favorite song, "Age of Aquarius," was played during the ceremony prior to the game and Governor Docking crowned the queen.

Miss Haymaker is from Minneapolis, Minn. Her grandfather was an instructor at K-State for 46 years and Haymaker hall was named in his honor.

Glen Campbell chooses queen; announcement made at concert

Recording artist Glen Campbell selected the 1970 Royal Purple Queen and her four attendants from a group of 28 candidates. Finalists were notified at their living groups in February by Royal Purple staff members. The Queen's name was announced at the concert given by the group called "The Friends of Distinction."

Queen candidates were nominated by their living groups and Off-Campus women. Contestants submitted one black and white portrait for judging on the basis of photogenic beauty.

Royal Purple Queen finalists were Beth McCoy, Alpha Chi Omega; Colleen Schneider, Chi Omega; Stephanie Berglund, Kappa Alpha Theta; Susan Falk, Pi Beta Phi; and Loy Gillespie representing Goodnow hall.

Top Ten Campus Girl
Ann Foncannon

Coed wins spot in Glamour's 10

Ann Foncannon, chosen as All Campus Girl, was also selected by "Glamour" magazine as one of its "Top Ten College Girls in America."

Miss Foncannon was selected by "Glamour" from entries submitted from over 300 college campuses.

Chosen to reign over Engineers' Open House on March 16, Rita Rieschick and Wayne Ross were crowned St. Patricia and St. Pat.

From a list of five finalists, Cindy Thompson was elected Military Ball Queen at the 1970 Military Ball.

Scabbard and Blade, honorary auxiliary of the Army Reserves Training Corps, sponsored the annual ball.

Phi Kappa Tau's Cannon Ball Queen for 1969 was Rosemary Meade. The queen is selected by fraternity members from candidates representative of campus living groups.

Luanne Corn, chosen Miss Rodeo Kansas State 1969, went on to win the title of Miss National Intercollegiate Rodeo Assoc. Queen.

Ugly Man on Campus contest was replaced by one called Beauty and the Beast. The contests were devised to provide money for the instruments and music lost in the 1968 Nichols fire.

Elected Beauty and Beast by penny votes were Libby Dyke, Chi Omega, and Larry Sinn, Alpha Tau Omega.

Coeds' Favorite Man On Campus was Larry Dixon. He was selected from five finalists by campus women. Arts and Sciences and Home Ec Councils organized and directed the selection procedures and voting.

Cecilia Eyestone, member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, was voted 1969 Lambda Chi Alpha Chariot Relays Queen by campus men as a part of the annual spring relays competition.

Miss Agriculture, Debra Kelly, was chosen by those in attendance at the annual Agriculture Fall Festival. The Ag Queen title replaces the past position entitled Barnwarmer Queen.

Linda Edds wins title in pageant

Linda Edds was chosen as Miss Manhattan K-State after the traditional pageant sponsored by the Manhattan Jaycees. Miss Edds is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

First runner-up was Jan Page representing Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Terry Voboril of Clovia 4-H house was selected as Miss Congeniality.

This year's contest included current fashions modeled by the 12 semi-finalists. "Age of Aquarius" was played during the modeling in the Manhattan Municipal Auditorium. Contestants were judged on the basis of talent presentations and their poise and beauty during swimsuit and formal modeling.

Miss Edds received a $300 scholarship, a $100 wardrobe and the right to compete in the Miss Kansas pageant in July. Miss Edds was crowned by last year's title winner, Linda Hooper.

Other finalists were Barb Haymaker representing Delta Delta Delta sorority. Jenifer Davis representing Moore hall and Nancy Higbee of Putnam hall.

While the other contestants watch, Linda Edds receives the Miss Manhattan-K-State cape from a Jaycee. The 1969 title winner crowned her.

RP varies style; fall delivery set 1970's Royal Purple adopted a new look with a three column makeup format rather than last year's two. The makeup change allowed for a greater variety of page makeup.

Karen Corn, editor, increased the number of pages from 1969's 700 to 704. Yearbook sales topped records with approximately 8,500 students purchasing Royal Purples.

Maintaining its distinction as the nation's yearbook with the longest record of All-American awards, the 1969 Royal Purple received K-State's 34th All-American rating given by the Associated Collegiate Press.

Due to staff reorganization, the Royal Purple changed from the usual spring delivery to fall delivery.

Approximately 60 students worked on the combined business and editorial staffs to produce the yearbook.

Fall Collegian rated All-American paper serves as forum for students

With a larger paper and an expanded editorial section, the Collegian, under the direction of fall editor Jim Parrish, received the All-American Award for the paper's overall layout.

With more than 1,000 mail subscribers, the Collegian used more color and two page spreads.

Al Messerschmidt, the editor of the spring Collegian, reduced the amount of national wire service news, giving more attention to campus events and news of interest to the students. He emphasized current issues such as the draft and the VietNam War.

Athletic events were described in numerous two page spreads and minor sports, as well as the major sports, were covered. The daily paper also served as a forum for students and faculty to express their opinions about current issues being discussed on campus.

Collegian advertising, both local and national, accounted for more than $90,000 income during the fall, spring and summer publication periods. Local advertising, which includes all merchants within the 25 mile trade area, was sold and laid out by the advertising staff. National ads for the Collegian were handled by the National Education Advertising Service.

Curt Willyard, fall business manager, used the sales classes in his campaign. Spring business manager, Mike Palmer, was assisted by graduate adviser, Twila Crawford. The number of ads sold determined the size of the Collegian.

Dimensions, informational magazine which replaced the University Edition, was distributed to all incoming freshmen and transfer students. Jerry Reppert supervised all advertising sales for the magazine, of which 15,000 copies were printed for distribution.

Students maintain, operate campus radio stations

Student radio station, KSRH, housed in Moore hall, transmits to all of the campus dorms. Specialized equipment allows students to experiment.

KSDB began as K-State's FM radio in 1951. The station previously served as an AM station, but with the gift of radio equipment from Senator Arthur Capper, they made the switch to FM.

KSDB is maintained indirectly by student fees, as the operating funds that it receives come from the student government allocations.

Approximately 40 to 50 students run the station 52 hours each week. The station plays a wide variety of music and broadcasts live all varsity football, basketball and baseball competition. Students serve on various staff positions which include sports, news and special events coverage.

KSRH is the second student operated and maintained radio station on the campus. Dormitory residents man the station, providing residents with music, news and information about the upcoming events in the dorms.

Magazines promote communication in University

"The Agriculturist," a multi-page publication written and edited by the students in the College of Agriculture, is a bi-weekly publication. The paper was begun to promote a communications medium between the college and campus and as an outlet for constructive criticism.

First issues of the paper included articles on the Horse Show, Agriculture Science Day and the committees set up within the college.

Touchstone, campus literary and art magazine, was printed by the magazine's staff in an effort to save funds. The magazine includes contributions of poetry, prose, artwork and photography by students and faculty.

Published by the College of Engineering, "The K-State Engineer" serves as a communicator to the Engineering students and faculty.

Team members, who are only allowed to compete for a year, judged wool on the basis of quality as well as the wools' classification.

Senior Meats Judging Teams captured second place at the American Royal while taking third at the International Meet in Chicago.

Horse Show contestants compete in rodeo events

Block and Bridle Club's second annual Horse Show attracted approximately 2,500 people during the two day event. All activities were centered in the arena at Weber hall. Included among the scheduled activities was the crowning of Maria Scheer as the first Block and Bridle Horse Show Queen.

Competition was staged in several classes of horsemanship and general rodeo events. Included among these were the Cloverleaf barrel race, a ribbon roping event in which ribbon must be removed from a calf's tail; men's and women's equitation pleasure class in which contestants are judged solely on riding ability; and a rescue race involving participants located at both ends of the Weber arena.

Proceeds from the Block and Bridle Horse Show were used to provide funds for scholarships and also to promote general activities which take place in the various divisions of animal science.

Practiced horsemen compete in the cutting event by guiding their horse through a fixed pattern of stops and back-ups including this sliding stop.

Selected as representative faculty in this year's Royal Purple, 14 professors and instructors were designated from a total of 39 faculty members nominated by the college councils.

Representatives were chosen by a combined student-faculty committee on the basis of their outstanding teaching performance and also their value to the academic community. Student opinion and departmental information were additional criteria involved in making the final decision.

All of the colleges and many of the departments were represented by the selected faculty in an attempt to give the reader a better overall view of the academic segment. To achieve equality, representation for each college was based on the number of full-time students enrolled in the current term.

President McCain travels to Iran; aims for university improvement

President James A. McCain combined business with pleasure in his first extended vacation from the university in 10 years. McCain and his wife traveled to Greece to pursue their hobby, ancient Greek and Roman history.

However, upon request of the state department, the McCains continued to Iran to aid the Iranian government in improving their universities.

The Shah of Iran declared two years ago that the universities in his country would be Americanized. Formerly the universities were fashioned after the French system that offered no credits. A student attended the University for four years before taking his exams to determine if he received his diploma.

McCain lectured at all seven Iranian universities and hopes that an Iranian-K-State student exchange will result from his trip abroad.

Returning to K-State, McCain settled into his usual administrative duties. His primary interest is the careful planning of the university development.

After the Wildcat victory over the University of Kansas, Docking gave the first annual governor's cup to Vince Gibson. The cup will be awarded annually to the winner of the K-State-KU football game.

Docking also recommended a 10.3 per cent increase in prorating expendi-

Facilitating faculty participation in the establishment of university policies is the primary aim of the 61-member Faculty Senate. Three action committees and several ad hoc committees were formulated for this purpose.

Board lifts ban; adopts calendar

Appointed by the Governor for four-year terms, the Board of Regents approved various changes in the programs of the six state institutions they govern. After reviewing the year's university budget, the board forwarded it to the Kansas Legislature for appropriation.

In October, the board lifted the six year-old ban on the sale of cigarettes on campus. The Board of Regents also awarded construction bids to companies for various campus developments. Early in the year, they selected bids for the Evapotranspiration Laboratory.

Other changes made by the Board of Regents included an annual increase in the student incidental enrollment fees. They also sanctioned the new school calendar for 1970-71. Next fall, classes are scheduled to begin in late August with finals completed prior to a month-long Christmas-New Year vacation.

VP Smith heads ag experiments

Meeting the need for nutritional educational material for low income families in the state is one major objective of Floyd Smith, acting Vice President for Agriculture.

Smith assumed the duties of Vice-President Glenn Beck who took a leave of absence last year to become provost for Ahmadu Bello University in northern Nigeria as part of the international agriculture program. A university development project has been underway in India since 1956.

Through the agriculture experiment stations, for which Smith was director in addition to his other duties, research was continued by the College of Agriculture, College of Veterinary Medicine, and College of Home Economics. Five branch experimental stations are located in various areas of Kansas.

Extension gives study programs

Offering off-campus, non-credit educational programs, is the basic function of the University Cooperative Extension Service on campus.

With local offices in each of the 105 Kansas counties, Cooperative Extension provides an educational link between the Land Grant University, such as K-State, and the people of the state.

Cooperative Extension, along with the office of Continuing Education, presents educational programs in the areas of marketing and utilization of agriculture products, agricultural production technology, all home economics fields, 4-H clubs as well as other youth programs and community and resource development. These offices also update and broaden existing programs to better serve the community's needs.

Technical aid programs involve International Ag staff members

International Agricultural Program director, Vernon Larson, began working for the University in 1962. He took a two year leave-of-absence in 1966 to serve as chief of party in Nigeria.

K-State became involved with overseas technical assistance programs in 1955 when the initial survey team was sent to India. There are now two programs staffed by K-State persons in India — the Agricultural University Development Program and the Agricultural

tural Production Project

Kansas Board of Regents authorized the program as a result of recommendations to supply technical staff and assistance to selected states in India

VP recommends program switch

John Chalmers, vice-president of academic affairs, introduced many new university programs. To the Board of Regents, he proposed a doctoral program in Political Science, Sociology and Civil Engineering and also the departmentalization of the Colleges of Architecture and Education.

In university governing, Chalmers strived for more effective student-faculty participation. He took part in dialogues with committees from both the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate and from Student Government.

In addition to the routine work of appointing deans and recruiting faculty, Chalmers also approved a committee to explore easier ways to introduce various experimental courses and learning situations and directed dedication plans for the auditorium.

Farley leads faculty preparation for expansion of campus library

Overseeing the construction of the Farrell library annex was one duty of Richard Farley, director of the library. He also represented the librarians of Kansas as the president-elect of the Kansas Library Association in addition to holding positions on state and national committees.

Student and faculty will have use of the addition this summer. Planned facilities to aid the people of the university include rooms for two to six students to study aloud and not hinder those studying alone.

A study hall for 300, open 24 hours a day; a coffee and snack room; reserve carrels for honor students; student lounges; and more efficient departments are planned. A small bookstore selling auxiliary reading materials and school supplies will also be available to students and faculty.

Library card catalogues aid students in research. Altering systems to the Library of Congress from the Dewey Decimal also encourages assistance.

Library Director Richard Farley provides guided tours for all freshmen.

Library facilities include a four-track tape recorder system, which may be used by instructors for audio teaching. Students, by listening to tapes, may correspond material with their work in language and music classes.

At fall registration, a record number of students complete registration by filling out cards while waiting to pay their fees, check on loans, receive a new class schedule and buy seasonal tickets for home football games.

Prospective undergraduate students send admission blanks to the office of Ellsworth Gerritz who keeps complete files of all student transcripts.

New processes speed enrolling

One registration sheet replaced the usual multi-card packet at spring registration. This method allowed students to register quicker and easier, filling in only missing and incorrect information. Registration officials feel that in the near future a mail system can be initiated.

Fall and spring computer registrations were the smoothest ever, with few problems. Enrollment figures are at a high of 13,149. The colleges of arts and sciences and agriculture lead enrollments of the colleges.

Ellsworth Gerritz, dean of admissions and records, coordinates registration procedure. He is on various committees and is vice-president of International Education in the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

Peters supervises the development of student and faculty programs

Extensive staff and student development programs were overseen by Vice-president Chester Peters. As part of the development progress, Peters appointed former K-State football player Veryl Switzer to bolster university human relations and to assist in the varsity athletic programs.

Switzer came to K-State from Chicago, Ill., where he was a human relations coordinator in the public school system for the past nine years.

Among Peters additional responsibilities were parent and student orientation sessions, residence hall programs, union-sponsored activities and intramurals and recreation.

Assisting the vice-president in his duties were seven key assistants. Dean of Students Gene Kasper advised freshman seminar groups and defined university policy regarding student conduct. Serving as consultant for the Association of Women Students and Panhellenic Council was the primary responsibility of Margaret Lahey, associate dean of students.

Working to provide students with personnel information was the main concern of Assistant Dean of Students Caroline Peine. J. Allan Brettell advised international students on various matters while Bruce Woods coordinated student religious activities.

Union committees plan activities; construction close to completion

Between Richard Blackburn, director of the Union, and the Union Program Council, the Union manages to provide something interesting for everyone. Two hundred students on the eight UPC committees plan unlimited activities for K-State students and members of the university faculty.

The Union Governing Board, composed of nine students, three faculty members, one alumni representative, the union director and the program director, is the governing and policy-making body for the union.

Full use of the union addition will be permitted by fall 1970. The new facilities will include more activity space, a coffeehouse and a book store. The opening of the bookstore is also scheduled for the fall of 1970.

New concepts in furnishings and facilities were utilized in order to improve service. The expanded recreation area was opened for students and faculty in February as was the enlarged union parking lot south of the Union.

The Cat's Pause in the Union keeps a wide selection of reading material.

Considering the union construction progress, Richard Blackburn, union director, prepares for the future developments and needs of the union.

Planned since 1964, construction on the $2.8 million K-State Union addition continued, partially financed by special assessments in student fees.

University fund assists building

With over $13 million of construction work underway during 1969 and 1970, university development, headed by C. Clyde Jones, continued to expand and develop plans for the future.

Working with both the Endowment and Alumni Associations, the Office of University Development organized the Alumni Giving Program.

By finding ways to increase alumni support, the program's goal was to increase the number of annual contributors to the fund. The 1968-69 total income was $1.5 million, of which $647,000 was spent for scholarships.

Assisting in the areas of university development were Case Bonebrake, physical plant administrator; Vincent Cool, assistant vice-president of planning; Dean Hess, executive alumni secretary; and Kenneth Heywood, endowment and development administrator.

Hess evaluates teaching styles

Carroll Hess, dean of the College of Agriculture, emphasized three instructional improvement programs designed to promote self-evaluation of teaching techniques.

Video-taping lectures so instructors could see their strength and weaknesses was the first area, enrollment of faculty members in a course to improve their teaching practices was the second, while a student-faculty discussion was third.

For a follow-up to last year's self-study program, Hess supervised an evaluation of instructors. Particular emphasis was placed on courses and procedure in the classroom.

Hess was chairman of the North Central Region Directors of Resident Instruction in Agriculture and was the Commissioner on Education in Agriculture in Natural Resources.

Ag departments create research with goal of larger food supply

By incorporating development and improvement, the College of Agriculture created a beneficial research program with a total objective of increasing the world's food supply.

Working to find a possible control of crop pests, the entomology department gave much time to research. Development of Kanza, an alfalfa strain resistant to spotted and pea aphids, accented their work.

Assistance in the project came from the plant pathology department and the agronomy department. Generating alfalfa was the concern of the plant pathology department and testing Kanza was the primary responsibility of the agronomy department.

College revises program to limit enrollment on advanced levels

Marking the year for the College of Architecture and Design was the revision of the architectural program to a two-year basic studies plan followed by a three-year professional program.

After completing the basic study program, candidates for professional training were evaluated by a committee of architecture students and staff. With the restructured program, this process limited total enrollment allowing for better use of the college's facilities.

To adapt to the more sophisticated attitude society has toward architecture today, proposals to change teaching methods to emphasize environmental design were discussed.

Fischer advises teaching board

Emil Fischer, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, works to coordinate college teaching with the aid of a seven-man advisory board. The board was established by Fischer and meets annually for discussions with students and faculty interested in the advancement of higher education.

Fischer, a member of the Architectural Association of London, visited England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales during the summer.

In addition to his administrative responsibilities, Fischer is a member of the Fine Arts Council and Grand Master of Tau Sigma Delta, an architectural and allied arts honorary.

Fischer is a member of the Kansas chapter of the American Institute of Architecture and the American Association for Higher Education.

A & S enrollment grows to 4,897

With 21 departments and two main divisions, the College of Arts and Sciences rose to 4,897 undergraduates. The total number equaled almost half the total number of undergraduates at the university.

A more liberalized program offering more electives and the choice between the B.A. and B.S. degree in many curriculums accounted for the increase in enrollment. Growth at the junior level was due to transfer students.

Curriculums expanding the most in enrollment were mathematics, political science, psychology, journalism and art. Enrollment in the pre-professional courses also increased.

In the general curriculum, 972 students were enrolled. The Freshman Advising Program assisted students who wished to explore opportunities before declaring a major. The students selected their courses with the assistance of advisors representing the various fields throughout the university.

Curriculum alterations encourage inter-disciplinary work in classes

In the 21 departments and two divisions of the College of Arts and Sciences, the trend to more inter-disciplinary work was highlighted. In an effort to make various classes relate more to each other, several curriculum alterations were presented to the college.

Under the field of archaeology, a new course combining field and laboratory techniques was initiated for the summer program. Furthering the inter-disciplinary trend in geology was the addition of paleoecology and paleobiol-ogy courses while the biology department added psychobiology, to the list of courses offered.

In an over-all move to modernize the biology program. The department made seven changes in its curriculum. Also, committees met to discuss the possible incorporation of a dual degree in geology and civil engineering and a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree for the students in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Stamey leads growing Arts and Sciences college

William Stamey, acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, coordinated the college's various faculty and student committees and councils. During Stamey's first year, the college had an undergraduate enrollment of almost 5,000 plus over 720 graduate students.

Two major achievements this year in the College of Arts and Sciences aided the university as a whole. The biology department received a National Science Foundation Grant creating additional faculty positions and the completion of the auditorium provided needed classrooms and music facilities for the use of the entire university.

Stamey, a member of the Board of Student Publications, aided the Collegian in its efforts which resulted in an All-American citation.

Arts and Sciences Council worked to present the student's views to the administration. A committee was formed to make additional suggestions to the Faculty Curriculum Committee and the student initiated Independent Interdisciplinary Semester was developed.

Honor students enter seminars

Students in the College of Arts and Sciences with a potential for unusual scholastic achievement took part in the Inter-Collegiate Honors Program. By participating, they obtained a more individualized program of study patterned to their particular needs.

Freshmen were encouraged to investigate introductory honors courses. Sophomores selected seminars, the topics of which reflected interests of both students and professors alike.

Juniors took part in the Junior Colloquium and studied "Man's Use of His Environment." Seniors completed independent studies which culminated with individual essays.

Accounting graduates rate high; Commerce handbook is printed

Challenging opportunities for professional study and development in accounting and business serve as the main objective of the College of Commerce.

Compared with all Kansas schools, K-State accounting graduates had the largest percentage passing all four parts of the 1969 CPA examination.

To retain this effectiveness, the College of Commerce published a handbook enabling a student to plan his best four year program of study.

Programs established this year to assist students include an undergraduate specialization in labor relations. A new business seminar, also started last fall, is supported by the Research Foundation of the state of Kansas.

Due to additional programs and an increased enrollment, the college added five new faculty; two in accounting and three in management. Management Horizons, the college publication, added a new cover and format.

Lynn aimed toward expanding different courses and adding new faculty members in order to accommodate the vast expansion of the college.

Lynn's book, Principles and Market Action, written this year is now on the market. A second edition of an earlier book by Lynn is also being offered to the public for their information.

Dean of Education begins plans for education, psychology facility

Named to the position of dean of education in August 1969, Samuel Keys initiated plans to update the college's facilities and programs. He formerly served as associate dean of education at Missouri University and as a consultant to the National Teaching Corps.

In planning for the construction of a new building, Keys traveled to various schools to study current designs in education buildings. He also met weekly with a steering committee to determine the plan of the new building housing both education and psychology classes.

Observation and volunteer teacher aide programs to acquaint prospective teachers with classrooms were discussed. The tutorial teacher aid programs which allowed students to work with educators on a personal basis, but still maintain academic standards, was reviewed by college personnel.

Nevins manages college budget

Coordinating and directing the activities of the College of Engineering is the principal objective of Ralph Nevins, dean of engineering.

Nevins also has the responsibility of the budget of the College of Engineering and serves as director of the Institute for Environmental Research and as the vice-president of the American Society for Engineering Education. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Engineers Foundation of Kansas, member of the Committee on Experimental Programs and president of K-State's Research Foundation.

After earning his bachelor and master of science degrees from the University of Minnesota, Nevins came to K-State in 1948. In 1953, he received his Ph.D. from Illinois University.

Home Ec holds first fall retreat

Home Economics Council and Student-Faculty Affairs Committee joined with the College of Home Economics to sponsor the first all-college retreat in the fall. The Sneak-Out Speak-Out was for those interested in college improvement techniques.

Chester Peters, Vice-president of Student Affairs, was the guest speaker. He stressed involvement by students, faculty and administration.

Discussion groups were formed using student leaders. New ideas concerning courses, curriculums, training and job preparation were discussed. Of major concern was more improvement of courses and instruction.

Some of the main events sponsored by Home Economics Council were the FMOC contest in conjunction with the Arts and Sciences Council, All-University Open House, Christmas Tea, Fashion Show and the annual Home Economics Spring Banquet.

Research grants were also awarded to the college to study kidney and liver disease inter-relationships in animals, virology and enzymes in red blood cells in sheep.

In addition to the grants, a new electron microscope was put in the Department of Pathology and a central teaching and research animal resource center was developed.

Also new to the college, was the establishment of three areas in the clinical department. Included in these specialties are cardiology, toxicology and food animal medicine.

Sponsored under the Education Profession Development Act, the school also received a federal grant. Improving teacher training, the grant supported education for junior colleges and large colleges. Special emphasis was placed on English, home economics and the educational media.

Rising to 1,855, the graduate enrollment increased 20 per cent. Application by doctoral candidates rose by 35 per cent. Operating a program of visiting scholars, the school financed their visits to the university. The programs brought well-known speakers to K-State.

Service to the University and to the students was the goal of several university groups. Tribunal, Board of Student Publications and University Activities Board utilized student ideas to plan campus activities and publications.

Tribunal, the highest judicial organization on campus, acted as student review board for students not residing in some organized living group. They also held the authority to rule on any section of the constitution proposed by Student Government Association.

University Activities Board members planned and coordinated campus activities during the year. They also advised and assisted organizations and living groups concerning money raising projects. The UAB was responsible for reviewing and approving constitutions of all organizations on campus.

Three students and three staff members comprised the Board of Student Publications. They directed the activities of the Collegian, Royal Purple, Dimensions and the University Directory. In addition, they selected the editors of the various publications.

SGA influences new laws, BAW

Chuck Newcom, Student Body President, led Student Governing Association in a Task Force Proposal which favored an All-University Government with equal representation by administration, faculty and students.

Revision of the Student Judicial System and a successful petition to lift the campus ban on cigarettes were major SGA questions. They also investigated plans for a future refreshment area at Tuttle Creek.

Black Awareness Week, sponsored by SGA in February, worked toward easing racial tension on campus. Plans to coordinate a conference about racism with BAW were formulated.

Newcom traveled to Washington D.C. twice during the year to confer with other student body and college Presidents from 300 universities.

Cabinet members invite speakers and coordinate student activities

Coordinating undergraduate events and activities on campus, the Student Body President's Cabinet of the Student Governing Association forms an important link between students and the university administration.

Cabinet directors are appointed by the Student Body President and deal with all aspects of the university from public relations, finance and cultural affairs to academic affairs, human relations and external affairs.

Activities of the cabinet included the establishment of a Language Assistance Program to aid international students and planning Black Awareness Week, College Quiz Bowl for the campus living groups and religious events which are of cultural significance.

Responsibilities of the cabinet range from personnel selection of the various SGA committees to coordinating with Tribunal and faculty senate on projects of interest to the university student.

Major contestants for Student Body President set up campaign tables in the Union. Chuck Newcom won the spring election in the third balloting.

SGA sponsored petition requests the Board of Regents to reverse a previous decision concerning cigarette sales.

Student Governing Association, the governing body of K-State students, is located in the Union Activities Center.

Singing groups provide awards

Many non-music majors varied their regular school curriculum with active participation in a music group. The fourteen non-music majors of the K-State Singers participated in various charity drives and performed for several civic, school and church organizations. The proceeds from the Spring Music Scholarship Benefit and other concerts provided several full scholarships for music majors at K-State.

Women's Glee, under the direction of Jean Lemmon, performed a selection of contemporary folk tunes at the December Feast of Carols and at the annual Spring Concert.

Performances by Varsity Men's Glee Club included an appearance with Bill Cosby and the University of Nebraska's Men's Glee and a concert at Tabor College. In addition to their annual state tour, Glee Club took a four day singing tour into Texas and Oklahoma during K-State's Spring break.

Concerts given on music tours

Trips, tours and concerts highlighted the year for the Madrigals, Concert Choir, Concert Band, and the Symphony Orchestra.

The 60-member choir presented concerts in Omaha, Nebr. The group also participated in a statewide tour of Kansas, singing for high schools.

K-State Madrigals accompanied the Concert Choir on the various trips, tours and concerts. Plans were made by the 16-member group to present a series of noon-hour concerts.

Highlighting the year for the Concert Band was a winter tour to nine cities and towns in northeastern Kansas. During the three day tour, the band performed nine times.

The band also gave two concerts on campus on March 1 and May 10. A final performance was given during commencement exercises.

Highlighting the year for the University Symphony Orchestra was a tour of the Wichita area. The trip consisted of formal concerts and informal concerts in various Wichita high schools.

Members of Mortar Board, an honorary for senior women, discuss one of their many campus projects at a business meeting held in the Union.

Blue Key and Mortar Board, senior service honoraries, co-sponsored the coordination of the All-University Open House. They formed a steering committee to combine the events sponsored by the university colleges.

Blue Key, the men's group, coordinated Homecoming activities. They sponsored the Homecoming Queen contest, pep rally, window painting and a homecoming luncheon honoring their alumni. Blue Key contributed almost $1,000 toward their scholarship fund. The first award will be given next year.

Mortar Board sold activity calendars at registration to finance the Mortar Board Scholarship. They compiled a booklet on hints for prospective graduate school applicants, sold mums for Homecoming and Parents Day and also honored their parents with an annual luncheon on commencement day.

Mortar Board sold orders for mums before two of the football weekends.

Honoraries aid city and college

Service projects for the community and university highlighted the year for campus honoraries. Membership for the groups was determined on the basis of past scholastic service and activity accomplishments on campus.

Spurs, a sophomore women's service honorary, continued work on Project Concern, helped freshmen move into the dorms, ushered at various convocations and conducted a steak raffle during the week of Homecoming.

Chimes, the junior women's service honorary, planned and sponsored Parent's Day, were hostesses for the President's Convocation and for the Mortar Board scholarship dinner and aided the campus entertainment committee.

Phi Kappa Phi with 175 student and faculty members honored scholastic achievement in the entire university. Juniors were required to be in the upper five per cent of their class scholastically and seniors and graduate students in the upper 10 per cent.

Scholastic honoraries stress freshmen orientation

Alpha Lambda Delta, scholastic honorary for freshmen women, distributed class reference lists and files to women's living groups as study aids.

Freshmen men and women scholastic honoraries combined efforts to participate in freshmen orientation activities during summer enrollment.

A Course Reference List was compiled and distributed to campus living groups by women of Alpha Lambda Delta, as an aid toward scholastic improvement. The coeds helped with the instructor evaluation program.

Men of Phi Eta Sigma distributed informational pamphlets, entitled "How to Study," which encouraged more effective methods of studying. A Christmas party and spring banquet were planned with Alpha Lambda Delta.

Members of Putnam Scholars Association provided seminars for freshmen Putnam scholars to acquaint them with the honors program, classes and procedure for scholarship renewal.

Ag clubs create memorial fund

With the purpose of recognition as the final goal, Alpha Zeta and Alpha Tau Alpha provided agriculture students something to work and strive for as they pursue a college degree.

Requirements for Alpha Zeta are a 2.8 grade point average or by being in the top third of the class. A requirement of sophomore standing is made before becoming a member.

Alpha Tau Alpha, national organization for Vocational Agriculture teachers, sent several representatives to the Alpha Tau Alpha conclave in Kansas City and the national convention of Future Farmers of America.

Besides participating in Ag Science Day and the Activities Carnival, members helped usher at the state FFA convention and the Little American Royal.

Alpha Tau Alpha also established the Paul Glatt Memorial to take care of the family of a former member of the organization who died of cancer.

Alpha Zeta members deal with matters in agriculture or related fields.

Ag education's honorary, Alpha Tau Alpha, is initiating its new members.

ATA's purpose is furthering the profession of teaching in vocational ag.

Interest groups study vocations

Pre-forestry, wildlife, horticulture and bakery management students receive an opportunity to associate with students and businessmen interested in their field of study through their various interest groups.

Forestry Club acquaints students with the different aspects of forestry. Highlights of the year for the 25 active members are trips to other schools offering a forestry program.

Horticulture Club is open to interested students and meets two times a month. The club took part in Agriculture Science Day.

Bakery Management Club members meet leaders of the baking industry. A trip to the American Society of Bakery Engineers convention is one of the club's prime activities.

Members of the Wildlife Club performed toxicological tests for a chemical firm in Kansas City and participated in an environmental teach-in.

Conservation Club was reorganized this year. The club listened to guest

Ag unification aided by clubs

Uniting students, promoting interest in agriculture and creating better student-faculty relationships was the aim of various Ag Science organizations.

Steak fries, a chili feed, helping with the Little American Royal and selling cheese as Christmas gifts headed the activities for the Dairy Science Club.

Poultry Science Club, for a money making project, held a poultry barbecue for area chapters of Future Farmers of America. A banquet and poultry judging contest were other events.

Groups provide Ag Day booths

Organizations in the Department of Agriculture offered new opportunities for the agriculture students. Prospective employers presented programs to members of the Agricultural Mechanization Club. The group sponsored a booth at the Western Farm Show in Kansas City. In addition, they assisted with the state Future Farmers of America Farm Mechanics Contest.

Members of the Agriculture Economics Association competed in debate and speech contests at the National Agricultural Economics Club Convention. They also sponsored a booth at Agriculture Science Day. Social activities included the annual smoker for new members and a spring banquet.

Agricultural Education Club members assisted with the state and national FFA conventions. They completed a project to aid vocational agricultural teachers and had displays at Ag Science Day and the Activities Carnival.

Students in the Agriculture Mechanization Club learn about new technological advancements in farm equipment through slides and specialists.

Block and Bridle Club promotes debate and speech competitions

Aiding the animal science industry and encouraging fellowship among members, the Block and Bridle Club serves undergraduate students who are interested in the animal science field.

Co-sponsors of the Little American Royal, Block and Bridle allowed all students wishing to participate in the events to do so. In addition, they gave the second annual horseshow. In department contests, members of Block and Bridle competed in debate and speech contests with winners going to the national Farm Economics Association Convention to represent the club. The annual Ag Science Day provided the club with an opportunity to relay agricultural information.

4-H Club members write articles for state and county publication Collegiate 4-H members made funds for the club's activities by selling concessions at the Hutchinson State Fair in September. In the spring, the club organized a clean-up week-end at the Rock Springs 4-H Ranch.

Cooperating with the Kansas 4-H Foundation and the 4-H Extension Office, group members wrote copy and planned page layouts for "4-H in Review," a publication describing county 4-H activities in Kansas. The magazine is distributed throughout the state.

More than 190 students participated in the annual Little American Royal. The students' university animals were judged in beef, swine, sheep, dairy cattle and quarterhorse competition. Various Kansas livestock men judged the contestants on the basis of animal grooming and showmanship.

In addition to awards presented in all the Little American Royal divisions, three scholarships were announced.

Professional organizations aid in career planning

Members of professional organizations work to help students become more involved in their education and careers. The student chapter meeting of the American General Contractors of America featured speakers from the construction industry. Members gain the opportunity to view realistic building problems during inspection trips.

Goals of the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects include improved relations between the College of Architecture and the Manhattan community. A Member's Store was established through which students in the college may purchase supplies at reduced prices.

Members of the local chapter of Tau Sigma Delta award a scholarship to an incoming freshman and also, beginning this year, award a medal for an outstanding graduating student. Participation in the Big Brother program and intramurals were two of the highlights of the K-State chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Engineers serve in school clubs

Steel Ring, a professional engineering society, recognized seniors in the College of Engineering who possessed leadership, scholarship and professional ability. Members must maintain at least a 2.5 grade average. The group served as a steering committee for Engineering Open House and welcomed visitors on Junior College Day.

Sigma Tau, an honorary organization for promoting professional attitudes, was coordinated primarily for students in nuclear engineering.

Engineers form interest groups

American Society of Mechanical Engineering, composed of undergraduates enrolled in engineering sponsored picnics with the faculty and welcomed speakers from industry.

Pi Tau Sigma, honorary for juniors and seniors in mechanical engineering sponsored awards for projects and also recognized certain outstanding freshmen in the department.

Students in chemistry, biochemistry and chemical engineering were involved in chemically oriented projects and activities of the American Chemical Society. A field trip to chemical industries in Kansas City gave them insight to the chemical profession.

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers attended the midwest regional AIChE conference in Columbia, Mo., and prepared projects for participation in the Engineers Open House.

Engineering groups strive toward professionalism

Juniors in the upper one-third of the civil engineering class were eligible for membership in Chi Epsilon. To become better acquainted with prospective initiates, members sponsored a smoker before initiation.

Chi Epsilon members also challenged the civil engineering faculty to a volleyball game. The society also performed a service project for freshman students in civil engineering.

The American Society of Civil Engineers participated in a joint conference with the KU student chapter, attending the midwest regional meeting for a special activity and participated in the intramural program.

The American Nuclear Society is designed mainly for promoting professional attitudes. Age is not a requirement for the organization.

American Nuclear Society members tour the Triga Mark II nuclear reactor. The reactor is a device used to aid nuclear teaching and research.

Industrial engineers enter competition for award

Alpha Pi Mu, newly formed industrial engineering honorary, developed one standard talk, available to interested students such as high school students, concerning career possibilities in the industrial engineering field. An initiation ceremony and dinner honored its junior and senior members.

American Institute of Industrial Engineers sent representatives to the regional conference and entered competition for the W.G. Stanton Award.

Attending the annual Missouri River Inspection trip were several members of the Society of American Military Engineers. They also went to a joint meeting with the Kansas University and Kansas City posts.

An agricultural engineering booth at the FFA convention in Kansas City was a special project for the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. Speakers with interests related to the profession spoke at their meetings.

Members of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers question new developments in the field of agriculture after an ASAE chapter meeting.

Students edit agricultural paper; write career possibilities journal

Honoraries in the journalism area worked to stimulate interest in journalism and to improve the standards of radio and television on campus.

Sigma Delta Chi sent their president and advisor to the national convention and compiled a booklet on educational journalism opportunities in Kansas.

Women of Theta Sigma Phi sponsored a tea for underclass women and the Matrix table in April featuring Mary Jane Snider, a national officer of Theta Sigma Phi.

Radio and television honorary, Alpha Epsilon Rho, acknowledged a student each month for his outstanding work on KSDB-FM, student radio station.

Agricultural Communications Club joined with 15 other clubs to organize the Agricultural Communications of Tomorrow, a national organization for agricultural communications students.

This year was the first year of publication for the K-State Agriculturalist, a bi-weekly newspaper printed by the College of Agriculture. It was started to provide communication between the college and the entire campus.

Language clubs honor customs

Promoting the German language, interests and culture, the German Club celebrated fasching, a Christmas observance. New this year to the organization's activities was the celebration of Oktoberfest, a fall German festival.

Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, coordinated several activities with the Latin American Students Association. Students from four Spanish-speaking nations related their native Christmas customs to club members.

Performing for a large audience of children, the K-State Players presented "The Magic Isle" written by the director, Wesley Van Tassel. In November, a French dinner was served in the Union preceding the play, "The Miser," by Moliere.

K-State Players perform many one-act plays and dramatic excerpts for the high schools in the Manhattan area. "The Fantastics," a musical, was used by members as a workshop project.

Students center interests in art

Art and music organizations added to the cultural aspects of campus life. Clubs helped with recitals, art exhibitions and also raised funds for various worthwhile projects.

Mu Phi Epsilon, international music sorority, helped organize the Christmas Feast of Carols. They also sponsored the American Composers recital.

Music Educators National Conference attended the various state music contests, took field trips and tried to improve members' knowledge of the aspects of music teaching.

Tau Beta Sigma, a new colony, and Kappa Kappa Psi, both band honoraries, helped the band by holding a record sale, selling purple pride balloons and sponsoring an old fashion box supper for the two groups.

Delta Phi Delta, art honorary, held art exhibits in the union. Members brought their water colors, oil paintings and sculpture to show and to sell.

Groups promote various sciences

Encouraging professional growth in the natural and social sciences was the primary objective of the various campus science clubs.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon, along with the Williston Geology Club promoted interest in earth science. Sponsoring field trips and departmental seminars created new interest among members.

Sponsoring field trips and studying geographical problems were the main activities of the Geography Club. They also invited various speakers, including Harm deBlij, well-known geographer, to speak at their meetings.

Sigma Alpha Eta, a speech organization, sent members to the American Speech and Hearing Convention in Chicago. Money from bake sales and stationery sales helped finance the trip to the Chicago convention.

Touring Topeka State Hospital and the Menninger Foundation highlighted activities of the Psychology Club.

Planning a spring field trip to Texas to collect geological samples, Sigma Gamma Epsilon also organizes the geology newsletter mailed to alums.

Phi Epsilon Kappa rated as best; members encourage team spirit

Phi Epsilon Kappa, the men's physical education honorary, aimed to promote the physical education profession. This was done through athletic, social and service projects.

Members sponsored a free throw contest, ran a coat check at all home basketball games and assisted Ford Motor Company in sponsoring a punt, pass and kick contest for youngsters in the Manhattan area.

One of the major highlights of the year for Phi Epsilon Kappa was the distinction of being rated as the best chapter in the nation.

Phi Epsilon Delta, women's physical education honorary, promoted interest and professional growth in physical education and also good will and friendship within the department.

Among the projects sponsored by the chapter were a Christmas party, a Big Sister-Little Sister picnic and a banquet honoring the seniors.

Alpha Delta Theta, women's national medical technology honorary, and the Pre-Nursing Club strove to advise and supplement coeds in their field of concentration by tours and programs.

Members of Alpha Delta Theta, a scholastical organization, sponsored a carwash to earn money for their national project, MEDICO. In February they commemorated their founding.

The Pre-Nursing Club put up a Mitten Tree in the Student Health Center at Christmas time. The mittens were then taken to a Kansas orphanage and distributed among the children.

Both organizations assisted with the Bloodmobile when it was on campus. They also took trips around the state and toured various area hospitals, including the University of Kansas Medical Center Research Lab and hospital in Kansas City, Stormont-Vail Hospital in Topeka, and the metropolitan area hospitals in Wichita, Kansas.

Education groups nurture high professional ideals

Kappa Delta Pi and Student Education Association worked together to promote high professional intellectual educational and personal standards for those preparing to teach.

To become a member of Kappa Delta Pi, a student must have full junior collegiate standing. They must have a GPA of 3.0 and rank in the upper fifth of the school from which they were selected. They must also show an indication of continued interest in the field of education and desirable personal habits and leadership.

Student Education Association held a demonstration class in the techniques of teaching blind children. They sponsored a program for freshmen orientation, a talk by Dr. Cecil Chamberlain on drug use and a talk about delinquency by Malcolm Copeland, after which they had discussions. Members selected officers and presented scholarships at the spring banquet.

Clothing Club directs contest

Home Economics honoraries and interest groups broadened opportunities for interested students and provided for the sharing of ideas.

On a field trip to the Home Show in Kansas City, the Design Club saw the newest in home furnishings and fashions. They also toured homes in Manhattan and the surrounding area.

The student chapter of American Institute of Interior Designers required that members be sophomores in interior design. A.I.D. traveled to merchandise marts in major cities.

Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary and professional club, initiated students in the upper third of their home ec class. The club entertained alumni at a spring Founders Day banquet. Omicron Nu, a national honor society, promoted scholarship, leadership and research. A fall initiation honored new members.

Clothing and Textiles Club provided its members with a better understanding of the opportunities in the clothing and textiles area. The club sponsored the Top Campus Girl Contest.

AVMA, Pre-vet Club encourage professional ethics and conduct

Founded in 1906, K-State's chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association competed in Independent League intramurals and sponsored a fall and spring dance.

With 320 active members, AVMA provides an opportunity for members to gain knowledge and understanding of professional ethics and conduct.

AVMA membership is restricted to students in the college while membership in the Pre-vet Club is open to students in pre-veterinary medicine.

Pre-vet Club promotes a stronger relationship among pre-vet students and provides counseling for the students in pre-veterinary medicine.

By collecting monthly dues, Pre-vet Club is able to award scholarships to freshman students in pre-vet. Four of the scholarships were given last year.

With 225 active members, Pre-vet Club helps in organizing the annual Veterinary Medicine Open House.

Religious organizations provide summer missions, night services

Religious groups sponsored discussion groups, programs, films and parties to help promote fellowship among students. In addition to planning summer missions, members of the Baptist Student Union encouraged students to interact. Members also organized and presented worship services.

The Grace Baptist Student Fellowship sponsored several religious programs for Ft. Riley. A panel discussion entitled "Military and the Christian" and Billy Graham films were other activities of the year. The members also plan and present Sunday evening services three times each year.

Hosting the state convention was the highlight of the year for the Newman Club. The members also presented a Halloween celebration in a nursing home. At Christmas, members participated in a caroling party to various hospitals followed by a party and also gave a mass at St. Isadore's chapel.

AWS oversees changes for upperclass dorm hours

Off-Campus Women, a fast growing organization, reorganized in 1968 and now has 83 members. The group participated in various projects and activities including the Little American Royal beauty contest, assisting the Red Cross and participating in intramurals and Harlequinade.

Through its function as a judicial and supervisory organization, Associated Women Students seeks to alleviate the problems facing women students.

Coeds were active in many projects throughout the year, including sponsoring Fredric Storaska, speaker on "Self Defense for Women," discussions resulting in the change of hours for upperclass coeds, Door and Sock decorations at Christmas, establishing the Big and Little Sisters program to help orient freshman women and awarding a K-State coed a scholarship.

Frederic Storaska, a self defense expert, was brought to the campus by AWS. He stressed the importance of a coed not resisting when attacked.

Statesmen show spirit, pride in flash card section

Increased attendance at the various home athletic events was the main objective of the members of Statesmen, Gibson Girls and K-Club.

Statesmen promoted school spirit by running the flash card section during half time at home football games. They also helped with pre-game pep rallies and worked with the Pep Coordinating Council and Statesmates.

Gibson Girls, who were selected by interview, sold purple flowers, decorated the athletic dorm at Christmas, and aided the Grid Getters with their projects. The 52 members were introduced at half time during the Homecoming game. A picture of the members was made for Coach Gibson.

Varsity lettermen formed the organization K-Club. Members promoted the various athletic events and sat as a group during the home games.

Presented to K-State fans at a football game, Gibson Girls were chosen partially on their knowledge of football to act as football recruit guides.

One of the largest clubs on campus, Statesmates, wearing identical uniforms encourages purple pride and school spirit. The club members sit in a special section at home athletic games to follow cheerleader's yells.

Statesmates sell pride for teams

Pep rallies were publicized and prepared by the members of Statesmates. Hoops for the home basketball games were also made by members to boost the spirit of the players.

Fund raising projects were undertaken to earn money which was then donated to a campus project.

Members, which included 270 coeds, were asked to rent or buy a uniform and wear it the days of athletic events. They also sat together at home games in a reserved section of the stadium.

As a service to the cheerleaders, the group provided them with hot chocolate or soft drinks during football and basketball home games.

Requirements and projects of the organization were all part of the effort to promote and exhibit sportsmanship and school spirit and engage in projects for the athletic program.

Military groups enhance ROTC

To encourage and foster the essential qualities of efficient military officers was one of the primary goals of Scabbard and Blade. The organization at K-State, chartered in 1914, is one of the nation's oldest. Sponsoring the annual Military Ball at Ft. Riley was the major social function on their activity calendar.

Arnold Air Society, a select professional honorary service organization, assists the professor of Aerospace Studies in promoting the Air Force ROTC program. They also sponsor service projects for students, cadets and underprivileged children in Manhattan, such as assisting the Bloodmobile.

Members of the Pershing Rifles drill team exhibited their skills during the halftimes of high school and college basketball games and at the Activities Carnival to promote membership.

Publishing the Army ROTC newsletter, The Blade, Scabbard and Blade members strive to raise military education standards. They also advise Light Brigade and organize the Military Ball held each year at Ft. Riley.

Auxiliaries tap members in fall

Light Brigade and Angel Flight, women's military service organizations, rushed freshmen and sophomores first semester rather than in the spring as they had done in the past.

Affiliates of the Army ROTC, Light Brigade handled concessions, acted as parking lot cashiers and served as press box personnel during home football games. They visited soldiers at Irwin Army Hospital and sold Christmas cards for the local Federation of Handicapped Children.

In conjunction with the Arnold Air Society, Angel Flight assisted with the Bloodmobile. For a money-making project, the women sold refreshments during football games and sponsored "Date with an Angel." Several members traveled to Colorado Springs for a tour of the Air Force Academy and to Topeka for their state conelave.

Interest groups plan programs

Weekly meetings of the American Guild of Organists promoted worthy church music and increased the member's appreciation of their duties and opportunities. Members also improved their music knowledge.

Fencing Club adapted the wrestling room in West Stadium for practice. The sport was reinstated in the intramurals program after many years of sporadic existence.

Hoedowners met on Sunday night to square dance. The group participated in the state square dancing convention in Topeka and entertained other groups at a spring festival.

Judo Club, under the instruction of Isaac Wakabayashi, competed with Kansas City and Topeka Judo Clubs. The group meets semiweekly.

Political groups aid candidates

Young Democrats actively participated in state politics. Projects and activities of the CYD's included a banquet for Norbert Dreiling as a fund raising project, a reception for Hubert Humphrey and a trip to the state CYD convention in the spring.

Two political workshops, one fund raising dinner and three conventions were on the agenda for the College Republicans. They also worked in the gubernatorial primary and canvassed the second district for Chester Mize.

Last semester, members of the Flying Club traveled to Durante, Oklahoma, to attend the Intercollegiate Flying Meet and also hosted a FFA Safety Clinic. To promote flying and safety was the club's purpose.

All that is needed for membership in the Sports Car Club is an interest in sports cars and the payment of semester dues. The club sponsors rallies and competition on the club level.

By gathering nation-wide reports on road conditions, members of Sports Car club provide road safety information before vacation dismissals.

Agricultural Education Wives are involved with discussion over refreshsor such activities as informal teas, a spring picnic and a formal banquet.

Wives encourage husbands' future through clubs

Wives of K-State students have the opportunity to become knowledgeable about their husband's profession and his college's faculty members through many specific clubs organized for that purpose.

Both the AVMA Auxiliary and Agriculture Education Wives work to better understand their position in the world of veterinary medicine and agriculture education.

Wives or fiancées of the Air Force ROTC cadets aided the Arnold Air Society with the Bloodmobile and also sent Christmas packages to VietNam for two of their service projects. The Mechanical Dolls prepared a display for the Engineering Open House and made the cape for St. Patricia.

Members assist in service areas

Engin-dears assisted the College of Engineering by hosting the Open House and by serving at various teas and functions during the year. Members of the group are nominated by their living groups and then selected by Engineering Council.

K-State Dames Club sold tickets to a "make-believe" Thanksgiving Dinner to raise funds for Project Concern. Other activities included a family potluck dinner, a children's Halloween party and a dance in the spring.

Chi Delphia, auxiliary for Delta Chi fraternity composed of friends of the chapter, helped out with the tug-of-war contest and held a Slave Day.

Crescents, the sister organization of Lambda Chi Alpha, assisted the fraternity in hosting the Missouri Valley Conclave and also helped out at many of the fraternity's rush functions.

Sisters of the Golden Heart, auxiliary to Sigma Phi Epsilon, sponsored a slave day for the house, a spring banquet and attended a state-wide retreat.

Sigma Chi Sweethearts, sponsored a pledge mom-pledge son program, bake sales and slave days.

Triangle Little Sisters maintained a calendar of events on campus, helped with the housework, decorations for the formal and sent the house food during final weeks.

Housing

Three daily meals are prepared for a maximum of 2,100 students by Derby Food Center. Dorm residents are served in seven separate food lines.

Free moments in Moore hall are often devoted to ironing one's clothes.

Frith supervises dorm programs

More than 4,000 students resided in 12 university living units under the direction of Thomas Frith, residence hall programs director.

Concerned with the growth and development of the students in residence halls, Frith provided each hall with more than 100 full or part time staff and residence assistants.

Tutorial programs, lounges, libraries, ham radio rooms and dark rooms were available to residents. Recreational facilities included wrestling and weight rooms, tennis and basketball courts and free washers and driers.

Spring Fling, a week of programs and activities within the residence hall environment, recognized halls for academic achievement and featured movies and games throughout the week. The celebration ended with a cross-campus bed race followed by a picnic lunch and a dance that night.

Working with the KSUARH clean-up operation, dormitory coeds combine fun with work by raking leaves, picking up litter and hauling away limbs.

Rushees visit houses during rush; watch skits prepared by members

Rush Week activities for the 11 national sororities represented on campus netted a record 341 pledges.

Rushing a total number of 529 freshmen and upperclass coeds, the houses entertained with both afternoon informal visits and formal evening parties. To provide light entertainment during the week, sororities wrote, practiced and presented short skits dealing with life in each of the houses.

During the week-long selection process, rushees first visited all of the 11 houses and then they eventually narrowed their choices down to a final three. Prospective pledges then based their final decision on the three.

Serving as a center for most activities, Ford hall housed all rushees. Representatives from the various sororities served as advisers and counselors during the entire week of rush.

No longer classified as rushees, new pledges find that the excitement has just begun as they greet new pledge sisters and active sorority members.

Sorority members congratulate and embrace pledges at the end of rush.

Assistant Dean of Students Caroline Peine gives rushees last moment instructions prior to handing out invitations to pledge in fall rush. There are presently eleven national sororities with active chapters at K-State.

In formal rush, Chi O actives entertain possible pledge class members.

Formal rush week ends when the sororities pick up their pledges at Ford hall and bring them to the house for participation in the formal pledging.

Sororities take 343 in rush week; Panhel alters 1970 rush schedule

Continuing the identical procedures used for 1968 formal rush, 343 coeds pledged a sorority in the fall of 1969. Panhellenic Council also discussed the change in rush activities due to the new scheduling of 1970 rush week.

A two month rushing period for the 11 national sororities was initiated late in the fall for freshman coeds. This enabled sororities to fill their house quotas of 92 which were not attained during the formal rush week.

Panhellenic Council passed a motion to permit sororities to waive skits for the rush week in 1970. With the change in next year's school calendar, sorority rush will be earlier in August.

Other projects of the council included increasing the scope of their committee on Human Relations and sponsoring the Multiple Sclerosis Drive in the area around Manhattan.

Rush skits given at DZ's reunion

Delta Zeta sorority sponsored the annual State Day of Kansas and Nebraska chapters. Their alumni also met with them for a reunion at which each chapter presented their rush skits.

For the Christmas holidays, the women collected gifts for the patients at Topeka State Hospital. The sorority also caroled at a rest home in Manhattan. For a community project, the coeds visited and entertained soldiers at Irwin Army Hospital.

At the Christmas stocking party, the Delta Zetas and their dates decorated their house for Christmas. The sorority also entertained alumni and their children at an annual holiday party.

Other social events included a pledge party, a Halloween costume party, the Rose formal, functions with fraternities and father's weekend.

Delta Zetas decorated their house for homecoming and participated in Greek Sing and the Model United Nations. Individual members belonged to AWS judicial board and Spurs.

Lambda Chapter of Delta Zeta, located at 1803 Laramie, was established at K-State May 15, 1963 and is one of the 187 active chapters in the nation.

Alpha Delta Pi, Acacia take first place in 1969 HQ

Alpha Delta Pi's local chapter, Alpha Eta, at 518 Sunset was established in 1915. The sorority was started at the Wesleyan Female College in Georgia.

With their entry, "The Castle Hastle or Chastity Can Be a Goodman's Downfall," Alpha Delta Pi and Acacia took first in Harlequinade 1969.

ADPis also placed first in Homecoming decorations and sold candles with the men of Phi Delta Theta to assist handicapped children.

Members also helped Manhattan's senior girl's Y-Teen Club by volunteering to be their sponsor.

ADPis were elected Homecoming Queen finalist, Sigma Nu Sweetheart, FFA Queen finalist and the Phi Kappa Tau Cannon Ball Queen.

Alpha Delta Pis were members of K-State Singers, Alpha Lambda Delta, Spurs, Angel Flight and Light Brigade.

A "Fab-50's" party, Christmas formal and spring formal highlighted the social functions for the sorority.

Father's Weekend at the Alpha Delta Pi house was accented by the coeds serving their dads the evening meal, taking them to the basketball game against Nebraska and then continuing out on the town after the game.

Living at 1220 Centennial Drive, members of Kappa Delta had the shutters of their house painted and new curtains installed by the alumni club. The chapter, founded in 1920, is one of 111 chapters of Kappa Delta.

For their entry in homecoming decorations, the KKGs, working with the DUs, modeled the front of the house to portray a castle of purple power.

KKGs celebrate centennial year

In conjunction with the celebration of their national centennial, Kappa Kappa Gamma is awarding a scholarship to a K-State student.

Placing second in Greek Sing competition, the Kappas also sponsored a pumpkin walk to Ft. Riley. The coeds sang songs and carved pumpkins with the men in the fort hospital.

Kappas won second place in swimming intramurals, second overall in kickball and first place in their league in basketball intramurals.

A Kappa was a finalist for Homecoming Queen, Delta Upsilon and Sig Ep sweethearts, Flush Bowl Queen and Lambda Chi Relays Queen.

Members were also active in Angel Flight, Light Brigade, Student Senate, Mortar Board, Chimes, Spurs and Alpha Lambda Delta honorary.

Initiating ten active members, the K-State chapter of Delta Sigma Theta received a charter January 17, 1970. Functioning as a national public service sorority, the coeds served many of the blacks in the Manhattan area.

Delta Sigma Theta establishes new K-State chapter

Established January 17, the Eta Gamma chapter of Delta Sigma Theta rushed ten new initiates and started an all black sorority at K-State. Founded at Howard University, Washington, D.C. in 1913, the Delta Sigma Theta sorority is a black service organization. In 300 chapters in over 40 states, membership totals over 50,000 women.

As a community service project, the members organized and taught Sunday School at a church in Manhattan. The coeds sponsored a Black Gospel Choir and entered the Kappa Alpha Psi talent show. Members attended rush parties, informal dances and gatherings following athletic events.

Outstanding members of Delta Sigma Theta were elected Black Queen during the annual Black Awareness Week and as a varsity cheerleader.

Kappa Alpha Psi stage victory party after KU game

Kappa Alpha Psi, a social fraternity, served the community by sponsoring a Halloween party for deprived black children in the Manhattan area. At Thanksgiving, members also prepared food baskets for the needy families in the surrounding area.

Socially, the men attended a Homecoming party in the Union and staged a victory party after the defeat of KU in football. Other functions included a spring Sweetheart Ball and participation in the University Talent Show.

Several members were active in Alpha Phi Omega, K-State Stage Band, Phoenix Band Club, the varsity football team and Pershing Rifles.

Kappa Alpha Psi was reactivated at K-State in 1968. Kappa Alpha Psi had an active chapter at K-State, but after World War I, the chapter dissolved.

IFC policy OK's alcohol in frats

Interfraternity Council, in recognition of its members' high academic policies, received the Ralph W. Wilson Library Award. IFC received the award for having the second highest scholarship ranking in the nation for campuses with 23 to 30 fraternities.

Other activities undertaken by the 24 house governing body included adopting a policy allowing for the consumption of alcoholic beverages in the houses. Each chapter then set up its own policy to go along with the Council decision.

For the second consecutive year, IFC along with Panhellenic Council, sponsored Greek Sing. Proceeds from the event were used for funding the Children's Zoo project.

IFC also worked toward endowing a scholarship fund in honor of Tiny Foltz, former advisor to the council. Council members rounded out the school year by attending a retreat at which they discussed the various aspects of fraternity rush, pledging of members and finances.

Acacia initiates education fund

Acacia members continued their service work in the community by providing toys for needy children at Christmas. The project is an annual event for the chapter and is organized by the Manhattan Fire Department.

As a new project, the Acacias released $7,000 to the endowment association for the establishment of a fund to assist students eligible for financial support, to continue their education. Projects by the pledge class rounded out activities for the chapter.

Social activities included the Christmas Formal with the selection of the fraternity sweetheart, a hippie party, playboy party, Night of the Nile and the Feast of the Aardvarks.

Outstanding members participated in student government association, forensics, the Glee Club and Sigma Tau. Acacias were on the varsity golf and judo teams and on the rowing crew.

K-State's Acacia chapter was established in 1913 and is now one of more than fifty chapters nation-wide.

Acacia fraternity, 2005 Hunting, was established in 1906 at the University of Michigan. The Acacias bought a color television for use by members.

Delta Sigs win academic award

Men of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity won the most improved scholarship trophy for the spring semester of 1969. Other highlights included holding an Easter Egg hunt for retarded children.

Delta Sigs active on campus included members of Alpha Zeta, agriculture honorary, Sigma Delta Chi and Alpha Phi Omega. Delta Sigs were also student senators and the spring editor of the K-State Collegian.

Members held several parties during the year including a homecoming party, Sailors Ball, Apache party and the spring formal. Delta Sigma Phis also worked with Clovia in the 1970 Harlinquinade competition.

Members made several improvements in the house including putting new carpeting in the television room and painting many of their study rooms.

Making improvements on their house was the main objective of the members of Delta Sigma Phi. New furniture and carpets were the additions.

Sigma Nus gain alumni support

Men of Sigma Nu netted over $800 from their annual alumni drive to provide adequate funds to remodel their living room and dining area.

Sigma Nu members participated in community and campus projects with work on the Heart Fund Drive and the campaign for multiple sclerosis. The pledge class was recognized for selling the largest number of tickets in the Heart Fund Drive. The chapter also took first in the fraternity division of Homecoming decorations.

Outstanding Sigma Nus were on the varsity basketball and gymnastics teams and the cheerleading squad.

Sigma Nu social activities consisted of the White Rose Formal, a Homecoming party, a come-as-your-favorite-person party and other theme parties.

ATOs construct new frat house

Construction of their new fraternity house was the focus of attention for members of Alpha Tau Omega. Located on McCain Lane, the house will be completed and ready for occupancy in the fall of 1970.

Socially, the ATO's held a Christmas semi-formal, a roaring 20's party, a spring formal, an alumni weekend and a pledge-active weekend.

Other special projects and activities included a formal rush for their little sister auxiliary, a planned party for underprivileged children and a special ATO Chug-a-Thon.

The Chug-a-Thon was composed of two man teams which began at a designated point, ran to an Aggieville bar, chugged a small glass of beer and continued to the next bar. Several bars were included in the race.

In intramurals, ATOs placed third in their league in football and third place overall in fraternity swimming. In basketball, the Alpha Tau Omega members took third in their league.

ATO member, Larry Sinn, was voted the "Beast" in the "Beauty and the Beast" contest. ATOs also placed second in the Lambda Chi relays.

ties included the Rainbow Formal, a western party and barbecue dinner.

DUs participate in clubs, sports

Active in campus activities, Delta Upsilon claimed the presidents of Steel Ring and Pre-Vet Club, vice-president of Interfraternity Council, three members of Blue Key and a cheerleader.

DU's also held four positions on Student Senate and were represented on the Agriculture College Council, the Arts and Sciences College Council and the Varsity Men's Glee Club.

Several athletes in baseball, basketball, track, cross-country, wrestling, gymnastics and rowing were DU's.

In intramural competition, the DU's rallied to victories in swimming, cross-country and wrestling, finished second in basketball and third in football.

DU's combined with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority for homecoming decorations and the Thetas in HQ.

For special service projects, the DU's conducted a Christmas visitation to the patients at Wharton Manor and collected food for underprivileged Manhattan families at Christmas time.

Gathering after dinner, members of Delta Upsilon practice songs for an evening serenade. The men participated in Blue Key, senior honorary; Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary; Phi Kappa Phi; and Eta Kappa Nu.

Annex creates FH dining area

For the second consecutive year, the men of FarmHouse adopted a Bolivian student in conjunction with the Manhattan Methodist church.

FarmHouse men sang in Greek Sing and entered a Homecoming display with Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Willie the Wildcat, Student Body President and a varsity cheerleader all were FarmHouse men. Members were also active in Blue Key, Steel Ring, Phi Kappa Phi, Gamma Sigma Delta and the Arnold Air Society.

FarmHouse placed first in their league in basketball and were fraternity basketball free throw champions.

Social functions included a fall barbecue, Halloween party, a Christmas semi-formal, a Valentine party and a Star and Crescent Formal.

Members presented a Thanksgiving program to the Wharton Manor and assisted in the city's Heart Fund Drive. Additions to the house included an expanded kitchen and dining area.

"Farmer Power Wagon," FarmHouse purple power truck, transported the varsity cheerleaders and FH men to all of the 1969 home football games.

an active room in the basement and totally remodeling their living room.

Kappa Sigs give alumni banquet

Highlighting the social activities of the Kappa Sigmas was the Stardust Winter Formal held in Topeka. Pledges staged a Red Dog party in honor of the Kappa Sig actives.

Founded nationally in Charlottesville, Va., the Gamma Chi chapter of Kappa Sigma at K-State was not established until June of 1919. To refurbish the fraternity house, an active room was constructed in the basement. Also included in the $7,000 renovations was the remodeling of the living room.

Kappa Sigma members and returning alumni celebrated their chapter's 50th anniversary with a banquet.

Members of Kappa Sigma were in the marching band and pep band and on the Collegian staff and football team.

Representatives of Sigma Tau, Arts and Sciences Council, Grid Getters and Circle K were included in the 90 members of Kappa Sigma. Kappa Sigs also participated in all the intramurals and entered homecoming decorations.

Fraternity hosts district meeting

Hosts to a regional meeting of its chapter from five states, Lambda Chi Alpha won first in Greek Sing, second from Homecoming decorations and organized the annual chariot relays.

Chapter activities included a retreat, assisting needy families, sponsoring a scholarship for a freshman coed and invited authorities on various subjects to a guest night at the house.

Lambda Chis were active in student government, student publications and were elected to Alpha Epsilon Rho, Tau Kappa Alpha and to Who's Who in American Colleges. Members served on the apportionment board and participated on varsity athletic teams and the freshman basketball team.

Among the social activities were the Christmas semi-formal, theme parties and Parent's Day banquet.

Lambda Chi Alpha took part in its national fraternity's model chapter program, pioneering many changes in their pledge education program.

Members of Lambda Chi Alpha take advantage of fair weather to discuss campus activities and greet brothers returning from another day of class.

Crescents, the Lambda Chi's auxiliary, surprise the members with a special

Phis win award for area service

Adopting an orphan from Thailand and sponsoring activities with mentally retarded children from Manhattan helped Phi Delta Theta in winning an honorable mention award for the National Community Service Day.

Participating in all intramurals, the Phis took first place in golf and second in swimming. Six members were also on varsity athletic teams.

Phi Delts entertained with several parties including the annual pledge party, the Homecoming dinner and party, a Casino party, She-Delt party, pajama party and the spring formal. Members honored their new housemother with a tea and planned to redecorate their living room.

Active on campus, Phi Delts served as members of Blue Key, K-State Singers, Student Senate, Steel Ring, Chi Epsilon, chairman of Campus Entertainment, president of Arts and Science Council, vice-president of Commerce Council and president and vice-president of Engineering Council.

Phi Gams take second in sing

Competing in the small fraternity division, Chi Deuteron of Phi Gamma Delta won second in the Greek Sing. Singing in one of the two divisions, the Fijis efforts helped support the Manhattan Children's Zoo project.

Fijis were active in intramurals, taking second place in golf. They also had one of the golf medalists among their fraternity membership.

Highlighting the social activities for the year were the Purple Garter party, Christmas party, Valentine's Day Formal, Fiji island party and the Norris Pig dinner, a social event for their chapter's alum members.

Men involved on campus included members of Forensics Union and Phi Eta Sigma. Fijis also were vice-president of Interfraternity Council and a delegation chairman to the University Model United Nations.

Innovations to the chapter house included paneling the dining room and adding new drapes and ceiling lights to the rest of the fraternity house.

Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, with 46 members, is found at 1614 Fairchild. During their fourth year on campus, Fijis redecorated their dining room.

Phi Taus ignite victory cannon

Refurnishing their chapter house was one of the main goals of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. In their decorating, the Phi Taus added new furniture, carpeting and painted the house interior and exterior.

Socially, Phi Kappa Tau held a Red Carnation Formal, Roman party-banquet and a Cannonball Formal to honor their Cannonball Queen.

Phi Taus also fired their victory cannon at the K-State football games and worked with the Kappa Delta sorority on Harlequinade 1970.

Phi Kappa Tau had members participating in Pershing Rifles, Arnold Air Society, Scabbard and Blade, varsity track, freshman football, Alpha Kappa Psi and the student chapter of American Veterinary Medicine Association.

Phi Kappa Tau was founded at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, in 1906. The fraternity was established at K-State in 1925 and there are now 101 chapters in the United States.

Phi Kap 'father' receives award

As a community service project, Phi Kappa Thetas contributed their blood at St. Mary's Hospital and at Christmas the members provided gifts for the children of the needy families in the Manhattan area.

Social activities sponsored by the Phi Kaps included an Indian summer party, Christmas party and Fish Formal. They participated in Reformation Day with Beta Sigma Psi and KU-K-State Migration Day with the Phi Kappa Thetas from KU.

Phi Kaps were represented in Sigma Delta Chi, Steel Ring, Scabbard and Blade, Gamma Sigma Delta, Phi Kappa Phi and the gymnastics team. The house also placed third in the Beauty and Beast Contest. A distinguished service award was given the Phi Kappa Theta house father from the fraternity's national council.

In intramurals, the men placed in the top ten for an overall record. The members took part in basketball, football, volleyball, softball and wrestling.

Phi Kap men with similar GPA's are paired against each other. The one with the higher grades at the end of the term gets a special steak dinner.

Phi Kappa Theta members, 1965 College Heights, are currently planning an addition to their fraternity house. When the construction is completed, three or four of the fraternity members shall reside in every new room.

Pike rides to games, serenades and yell-ins on the Pikes' fire truck. Purchased in the fall of 1968, the truck is a 1928 American La-France model.

Pike "Playmate" calendar betters campus relations

Pikes acquired a color television for the house. In addition, as house improvements, they paved the parking lots and paneled a room for guests.

In an effort to improve public relations with the other living groups on campus, the men of Pi Kappa Alpha created and sponsored a Pike "Playmate" calendar for use by students. Pictures were submitted by the various coed living groups on campus to be used on the calendar. Also highlighting the year was the election of a Pike as winner of the UMOC contest.

Active in all intramurals, Pikes took second in softball and basketball and ranked third in football. They also captured first place in ping pong. One of the men was a member of the K-State varsity rowing team.

Pike social functions for the year included a barn party, beachcomber party, Halloween masquerade, Roaring 20's party, Christmas party, founders day, mothers weekend and the annual Dixie Ball Spring Formal.

IFC recognizes Sig Alph grades

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, in recognition of their academic strides, received the most improved scholarship award from Interfraternity Council.

In addition, members were awarded the Hammerstein Trophy by the Kansas City alumni for their contributions in civic service. Among their service activities was the project of coaching sixth and seventh grade boys on the Kiwanis basketball team.

Participating in intramurals, the Sig Alphas took first in their league in football and won the Superball contest in basketball. Besides intramurals, members played on varsity football, basketball, track, baseball and golf teams.

Members were active in Alpha Kappa Psi, Phi Eta Sigma and Sigma Tau. Sig Alphas also served as officers on the Interfraternity executive council.

In music, three members were in K-State Singers. Social activities for the house included a Bowery party, Belle Ball Formal, Island party and the Paddy Murphy celebration.

For the second year, the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon sold "Year of the Cats" bumper stickers to aid in promoting spirit for the athletic teams.

Sigma Chis cite 20th anniversary

For the third consecutive year, the Sigma Chis attained their national Peterson Significant Chapter Award. It is the highest Sigma Chi award.

Nabbing the second place in Greek Sing, the Sigma Chis also refurnished their living room with new carpeting.

On Dec. 3, the active members and alums celebrated the chapter's 20th anniversary with a banquet and party.

Sigma Chis painted a house to raise money to donate to the Wallace Village for retarded children.

Members were active in Blue Key, Interfraternity Council, Engineering Council, Steel Ring, Student Senate and Phi Eta Sigma honorary.

Social highlights included the annual Derby Day, sewer party, pajama party and the Sweetheart Ball.

Extensive redecoration of the Sigma Chi living room finished a remodeling project done by a professional firm. The fraternity is occupied by 67 men.

Sigma Chi pledges study an average of 20 hours a week as a part of the scholarship program. This includes three hours each night. Actives who fall below house average are also required to comply with the program.

ed their basement recreation room. The Sigma Phi Epsilons also bought new carpeting and installed it in the living room of the fraternity's house.

Sig Eps observe foreign culture

Working through the Interfraternity Council, the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon sponsored an exchange program with foreign students involving exchange dinners, discussions and lectures on foreign countries.

Men of Sigma Phi Epsilon were active in intramurals, assisted Gamma Phi Beta in homecoming decorations and decorated the Wharton Manor for the Christmas season.

Outstanding individuals in the chapter participated on the varsity football, gymnastics, wrestling, track and soccer teams. Sig Eps were active in Union Program Council and Tau Sigma Delta. The president of the Commeree Council was also a Sig Ep.

Redecorating their basement and installing new carpet at their chapter house, 1015 Sunset, was one of their projects. They plan to continue with their redecorating in the future.

Sigma Pi Epsilon at K-State is one of 177 national chapters. This chapter was founded Feb. 23, 1918.

Sigma Phi Epsilon men transform a doorway into a temporary handball court in free time. Sig Ep members also participated in varsity athletics.

a "Teke Trek" to celebrate a victory in football and giving a skit for HQ.

Tekes promote purple & white

Backing purple pride, the men of Tau Kappa Epsilon carried a purple football from Manhattan to Lawrence before the K-State-KU football game.

Community service was emphasized by a Public Service Weekend in the spring, a March of Dimes airlift and a Halloween party for underprivileged children in the Manhattan area.

Outstanding members of Tau Kappa Epsilon were the sub-chairmen of the Campus Entertainment and the Harlequinade committees, Tribunal, Union Hospitality committee, Alpha Pi Mu, Arnold Air Society and the IFC Executive Board. Members were named to the Air Force, Putnam and General Motors scholarships.

Socially, their calendar included the Red Carnation Ball, TKE reunion and corral, pajama, sawdust and Greek parties. An exchange with University of Nebraska TKEs finished the year.

Triangle merits national award

Named as the top Triangle chapter in the nation by national headquarters for the second consecutive year was the local Triangle chapter. The honor is determined by the chapter's performance in scholarship, campus activities and social events.

Triangle also received the national Scholarship Cup for being the chapter with the highest grades. Their grades also earned Triangle the IFC scholarship trophy for the highest living group grade average on the campus.

Outstanding Triangles participated in Student Governing Association and were named to Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Tau and Eta Kappa Nu. Members also were on Engineering Council, Traffic Board and Athletic Council.

Improvements to the chapter house, involvement in Greek Sing, a formal and other parties compiled their year.

Triangle men gather for a session of cards preceding their evening meal.

Triangle fraternity restricts its members to men majoring in chemistry, engineering, architecture, mathematics or physics. House improvements included repainting and refurnishing their housemother's living quarters.

“It’s a Happening Thing!” named theme for Spring Fling activities

Spring Fling 1970 incorporated the theme: “It’s a Happening Thing!” Sponsored by KSUARH, all activities were provided free to all residents during the week.

Skits presented in the Union Little Theater by Wildcat and Wildkitten candidates kicked off the week. The final crowning took place later in the week at an open air dance.

Also characteristic of Spring Fling are the scholarship dinner and leadership banquet given in honor of outstanding students in the dorms.

Completing the Fling were elaborate bed decorations, a bed race, the picnic lunch, outside games and movies. Favorite contests such as the annual tug-of-war for partner halls and the bed race were retained from past years, while a bathtub stuffing contest was added to the Spring Fling program.

Spring Fling activities include a bathtub stuffing competition.

Dorm residents are regularly issued meal tickets that they must present to a checker who punches them before all meals. A student who loses his meal ticket must request a new meal ticket and pay a five dollar fee.

Dormitory leaders were honored at a banquet during 1970 Spring Fling.

KSUARH hosts Kansas meeting

Since its formation in 1964, KSUARH has been instrumental in introducing new policies to the dormitories in an effort to keep pace with the changing needs of the university student. Each hall scholarship house has one representative. Additional delegates are added for each 350 residents.

Visitation has been expanded in most of the dorms and each year many halls undertake a local service project.

Events in the past year included the annual leadership conference, inter-dorm sing, Spring Fling and campus clean-up. During Spring Fling, men and women dorms team-up for competition in a variety of events. They also produce skits to introduce their Wildeat and Wildkitten contestants.

To show its growing involvement in the state association, K-State hosted this year's state conference.

Spring Fling participants, with water balloons in hand, planned an attack on the bed races. Saturday's activities ended a week of dormitory fun.

Straube places in Spring Fling

Refurnishing and minor redecorating of the house was a highlight for Straube Scholarship House. New rugs were installed in areas of the house and several rooms were painted.

Members of Straube House included a state FFA reporter, president of the KSUARH, a student senator, president of the Bakery Club and a recipient of the Danforth Award.

Straube House sponsored a spaghetti eating contest, a Christmas formal, a Spring Formal, a Halloween hayrack ride plus dances and house parties.

In addition, Straube won the seaven-ger hunt and the campus cleanup campaign in the 1969 Spring Fling.

Straube men were also active in Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Phi Omega, Sigma Tau and the soccer and rowing teams.

In intramurals, Straube men were ehampions of the residence hall division in football and were the softball throw and cross country ehampions.

Competing in the various intramural sports, the men of Straube house were leaders in football, cross country and the softball throw contests.

Clovia adopts Manhattan family during Christmas

Clovia Scholarship House residents, 1200 Pioneer Lane, participate in the women's intramural program. They took second place in canoe racing.

Women of Clovia 4-H House participated in Homecoming, HQ and were clothing leaders at the Douglas Center 4-H Club in Manhattan. The women of Clovia adopted a local family to exchange gifts with and to share their main dinner for Christmas.

Clovia residents were active in Mortar Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, Omicron Nu, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Theta Sigma Phi, Alpha Delta Theta, Sigma Delta Pi and Phi Kappa Phi.

Clovia's Crystal Ball, their annual Christmas party, highlighted social activity. Other events included a Barn party at Halloween, their semi-formal in the spring, theme parties and a special buffet for alums and parents following the Homecoming game.

Members and pledges were active in state and national 4-H competition, placing high in the state competition.

Participating in the women's intramural program, the women of Clovia won second in the canoe races.

Housing 62 coeds, the Smurthwaite Scholarship House, 1500 N. Manhattan, participated in kickball, basket-ball and volleyball intramurals. The house also took second place in the women's competition of Quiz Bowl.

Coeds take first for overall GPA

Smurthwaite women were rewarded for their scholastic efforts by attaining the highest overall grade point average among the women's residence halls. In addition, the coeds won a second place trophy for their participation in the women's division of the University's Quiz Bowl and took part in women's intramurals.

Finalists in the Miss Agriculture, Miss Manhattan-K-State and Homecoming Queen contests were all representatives of the co-operative house. Another Smurthwaite coed was named Sweetheart of Kappa Alpha Psi.

Their social events during the year afforded the coeds a chance to work together as they made plans to have an informal Halloween Costume party, an informal Christmas party complete with an unexpected visit from Santa Claus and a spring formal.

For attaining the highest GPA in the house, a Smurthwaite coed receives the "Scholarship Owl" at the annual scholarship dinner at Smurthwaite.

Smith wins first in blood drive

Blood donations during the annual K-State Bloodmobile earned the Smith Scholarship House the Golden Drop Award. The award is given each semester to the living group making the greatest percentage of donations.

Scholarship and sports activities also provided the men opportunities as the men of Smith maintained the highest GPA among the organized living groups on campus. Participating in the Independent Division of men's intramurals, the residents of Smith also took second place in swimming and cross country intramural competition.

Student Body vice-president was a resident of Smith and other residents were student senators and members of the Arnold Air Society, Blue Key, Phi Kappa Phi, NRHH, Sigma Delta Chi, Eta Kappa Nu, Alpha Zeta, Sigma Tau, Phi Eta Sigma and K-State's Wildcat Marching Band.

Men of Smith Scholarship House gave a Haunted House party, Christmas party and a Spring Formal.

Residents of the Smith Scholarship House achieved the highest GPA for men's university housing groups and won the Golden Drop Award twice.

Smith Scholarship House rated the Golden Drop Award, an award to the living group making the highest percentage of donations to the semi-annual Bloodmobile. They have taken the honor the past three semesters.

With a majority of residents enrolled in the honors program, Van Zile was the first co-educational dorm. Hosting entertainment at a coffee house on weekends, Van Zile residents also were finalists in 1970 Harlequinade.

Van Zile begins open visitation

After functioning as a women's residence for forty-one years Van Zile was closed in 1967 for remodeling. In the fall of 1968 the hall re-opened to provide co-educational housing for students, many of whom are participating in the honors program.

Van Zile hall is the oldest dormitory in Kansas. The dorm was dedicated in 1926 and is named for Mary Pierce Van Zile who served as dean of women at K-State from 1908 to 1940.

Initiated at Van Zile as a special project was a coffee house every three weeks. The coffee house was open to all students. A Hall Chorus and Hall Fall Retreat were other projects.

Visitation policies for Van Zile were reviewed and extended to include the times each day from noon until women's closing hours.

Van Zile won second place in women's intramurals, placed first in the men's intramural wrestling and won both divisions of the university's Quiz Bowl. Dorm residents also participated in Spurs, Mortar Board, Student Senate, Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Eta Sigma and the Mock United Nations. Van Zile's skit was one of four skits chosen by judges to perform in HQ.

Van Zile cast members practice individual parts for their skit, "The Banner of Purple and White," before appearing in the final dress rehearsal.

Boyd functions honor families

Women of Boyd hall sponsored several social functions celebrating various holidays. The coeds gave a Halloween, Valentines, Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner. During the spring semester, they honored residents with high scholastic achievement. Special weekends in the dorm included those for fathers, mothers and little sisters.

During Spring Fling activities, the women produced a play. The coeds also captured first place in kickball competition in their league.

Dormitory improvements in Boyd included the recarpeting of second floor and the addition of a color TV. Last spring, the first and fourth floors were furnished with new carpeting.

Boyd women were active in Engin-dears, Angel Flight, Light Brigade, AWS, K-State Singers, Model United Nations and Student Governing Association. Boyd women were Miss Norton County and a finalist for the 1969 Miss K-State Manhattan Pageant.

Finding time for a break from studying, the women of Boyd Hall work to see how many coeds they can fit into one of the hall telephone booths.

Navigating through her corridor filled with umbrellas is found difficult by a Ford hall coed. The umbrellas, placed to dry, are the result of a rainy day.

Ford constructs listening room

Coeds in Ford hall celebrated the Christmas season with a vesper service in the dorm. For Halloween, the coeds entertained children from Manhattan with a party and then they took them trick or treating.

In order to add a stereo room, the dorm purchased a sound proof wall to enclose a section of the basement. Special interest films on subjects such as self defense were also shown.

Valentine's Day provided a banquet and formal and a scholarship banquet was given in the spring. The women hosted a tea on Parent's Day after the game and entertained their parents on Mother's and Father's weekends.

Ford hall coeds were selected as the Block and Bridle Queen, FFA Sweetheart and AWS president. Residents took part in intramurals, Homecoming decorations and Spring Fling.

Goodnow creates Edwards Room for dorm library

Goodnow switchboard operators announce calls and callers to coeds in the dorm through the individual intercoms present in all dorm rooms.

Goodnow hall sponsored a Little-Sister Program to help new students with registration. Within the dorm, residents took part in a scholarship banquet, a slave sale with Haymaker and their Mother's and Dad's weekends.

Social activities included Halloween and Christmas parties, a hayrack ride with Marlatt hall, their spring formal and dorm coffee houses.

In intramurals, the hall placed first to capture the 1969 women's trophy. Outstanding residents included two Homecoming Queen semi-finalists, Miss Kansas, student senators, Gibson Girls, Military Ball Queen and members of Chimes, Spurs and K-Steppers.

In the dorm basement, the Edwards Room was added. It holds books, magazines and information helpful for curriculum and career planning. The Freshman Council raised funds to buy a planter for the dorm's main lobby by sponsoring a "sloppy-joe" supper.

Putnam coeds raise money for child's scholarship

As a community service project, Putnam hall collected donations from residents to give a scholarship to a handicapped child. At Christmas, residents entertained children from the Douglass Center and decorated the Irwin Army Hospital at Ft. Riley.

Putnam coeds initiated a bi-weekly dinner for Very Interesting People to which they invited persons from the community to come and speak.

Putnam hall received first place for their Homecoming decorations in the independent women's division. They also participated in girls intramurals.

Among the 225 residents were Miss National College Rodeo Queen, a finalist for Agriculture Queen and semi-finalist for Homecoming Queen.

Socially, residents attended the annual Christmas formal, Mother's and Father's weekends and a spring tea for faculty. Putnam coeds were members of Phi Kappa Phi, K-State Players, K-Steppers and Light Brigade.

Coeds from Putnam hall prepare for Sigma Chi Derby Day. Girls collect old blue jeans for one of the events. The group with the most jeans wins.

West upgrades hall recreation

West hall, housing over 300 coeds, organized several special projects, including a fund-raising supper for Derby library and the project of presenting a gift during Christmas to the residents of Manhattan nursing homes.

Outstanding West coeds included one of the finalists in the Miss Agriculture Queen contest. The residents were also members of Light Brigade, Pep Club, Union committees, besides being members of the various interest groups derived through the colleges.

West hall captured second place for independent women's residence halls in homecoming decorations. Their social activities were highlighted by the formal and Sadie Hawkins dance.

Hall recreation for West coeds was greatly improved by the showing of films which were of interest to dorm members. A new stove was also added to the kitchen area for the convenience of the residents and guests.

Dorm residents fill balloons with water which coeds toss while riding in the Spring Fling Bed Race. Male residents shove the old decorated beds.

Haymaker hall initiates lenient policy for visitation

Haymaker hall residents meet nightly for TV newscasts. The basement in the dorm provides relaxation and an opportunity to take study breaks.

With a display entitled "Powered by Purple Pride," the men of Haymaker hall took second place in Homecoming decorations. The men also participated in intramurals and won swimming and wrestling trophies.

Their spring formal, "Age of Aquarius," was held off campus as were all the other dorm functions. They participated in the "Beauty and the Beast" contest with Goodnow hall.

Haymaker also entered Harlequinade and the Spring Fling bed races and the King and Queen contest. One of the dorm's floors had the highest GPA of any dorm floor on campus for the 1969 fall semester.

Opened in 1967, the dorm has room for 624 men. Haymaker has one of the most lenient visitation programs. Girls are permitted in the residents' rooms everyday and almost any hour, without any type of sign-in procedure. Haymaker was the first to experiment with the visitation program.

Making use of the recreational facilities of Derby Food Center, Haymaker and Moore residents compete in a basketball game. Additional facilities at the dorm include television, ping-pong table and a football area.

Marlatt 'Beast' finishes second

Two semi-formals highlighted the activities of Marlatt hall. Their first was at Christmas and was in the Union and the second was held off campus during the spring semester.

Other social activities included Marlatt and Boyd hall working together in Spring Fling 1969 to win the bed decorations and bed race. Marlatt hall teamed with the coeds of Goodnow hall to take second place in "The Beauty and the Beast" contest. Special projects in the dormitory involved working on HQ and FMOC.

Being active in KSUARH, Marlatt hall sent delegations to various state and national conventions which concerned leadership and management of campus dormitories.

In intramurals, second floor men at Marlatt took first in their division in basketball. Marlatt also won the badminton championship and was second in residence hall football competition.

Residents of Marlatt hall, the largest men's dormitory on campus, spend their spare moments playing cards, studying and listening to the stereo.

Roommates in Marlatt try to outwit each other in a game of chess. The residents may arrange their rooms as they wish by hanging pictures on the walls and bringing some of their old favorite belongings from home.

Moore supplies feature movies

Moore hall is one of the two co-educational dormitories on the University campus. The residents participated in seminars connected with University for Man and various workshops.

Men and women of Moore sponsored Christmas and Spring semi-formals and offered full length feature movies to residents and their guests.

Outstanding residents served in the Student Senate, worked as Student Senate Aides, were active in K-State Players, named to Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Zeta, Alpha Tau Alpha, Arnold Air Society, the American Nuclear Society and Putnam Scholarship Association and many worked as Freshman Orientation leaders in the summer.

Moore hall houses the dorm radio station, KSRH. Many of the residents served as station staff members.

Moore hall residents were named as Wildcat King at Spring Fling and the Miss Agriculture of K-State.

Moore hall students work at the control board of KSRH, an inter-dormitory radio station which broadcasts through personal radios of students.

A-Dorm houses varsity athletes

Organized on the K-State campus in 1967, the new Athletic Residence hall houses 180 men who represent every sport the university participates in.

Besides pool and ping-pong, a new television lounge and weight-lifting room were added.

To boost the academic morale of the men, the individual coaches set up tutoring programs and study halls were held Monday through Thursday.

Outstanding members living in the resident hall included the recipient of the Big Eight and National Back of the Week awards.

Each wing of the dormitory had an upperclass proctor in place of the governing board that functioned previously. The proctors usually consisted of assistant coaches and graduate students who have played for four years on one of the K-State varsity teams.

Athletic dorm has plans for a Purple Pride Room with plush furnishings. Entrance will be restricted to members of a varsity squad that beat KU.

Residents seek storm shelters

As the married student population increased, the demand for Jardine apartments grew to such an extent that a waiting list was begun for those that were interested in renting.

Couples residing in the 576 unit complex, continued their drive to obtain adequate tornado shelters and formed committees to patrol parking lots and enforce parking regulations. All improvements made in the Jardine area were supervised by the Jardine mayor and his council of residents.

Jardine Terrace apartments were constructed by the University to provide inexpensive campus housing for married students. The husband must be a full time student. Services within the Jardine area include full playground facilities for children as well as laundromat and areas for recreation.

Rooms for rent fade in number

More than 40 per cent of K-State students lived in off campus housing. Off campus includes apartment complexes, trailer houses, single rooms in Manhattan homes and individual's apartments in the surrounding area.

Rooming houses in Manhattan have become a thing of the past. Only one rooming house for students remains in Manhattan. Parsons hall houses ten men and provides them with living accommodations much like a residence hall. Commune living has become popular this year with one commune resident entering an FMOC candidate.

Townees enjoy living at home

College life while living at home presents a different environment from that of most students at K-State. The cost, home-cooked meals and laundry service rank on the list of advantages. A continuance of close family ties along with a quiet atmosphere for study are other assets. Townees also find that closing hours are usually self-limited.

Life away from campus also poses disadvantages. Finding a ride or parking spot is a daily problem if the campus is not close enough to walk. Television and telephone are unavoidable distractions in any living group.

Council decides to add 11th game

As a policy-making council, the Athletic Council, headed by C. Clyde Jones, considers possible improvements for the program to meet the future. Included in their decisions was the addition of an 11th game to the 1970 football schedule. The council considered several universities and finally asked Utah State. Approving budgets and considering any financial problems are also the responsibilities of the Athletic Council. To help supplement the budget, the council found it necessary to raise the price of next year's football season tickets. Among other possibilities for improvements are stadium expansion from 48-50,000 seats and renovation of the fieldhouse with tartan surface and roll-away bleachers.

Members of the Athletic Council are appointed every year with thirteen being the total number of members. Students, faculty, alumnae, and administration members make up the council.

Completing his first year as athletic director at K-State is Ernie Barrett.

K-State closed its 1969 football campaign with a 5-5 record, its best season since 1954. Despite losing his last four games, Coach Vince Gibson made tremendous progress in catapulting the Wildcats into a highly respected team.

In pre-season talk, Gibson predicted his team would compete. He also said that despite being improved, the Cats might not post an impressive win-loss mark. Both statements proved right.

Passing records abound in 1969

Despite having only a 5-5 record, the Wildcats established 17 conference records and 21 school records. Catalpung the team to the majority of the records, quarterback Lynn Dickey set 11 of the 17 season records.

Dickey's individual records were the most: attempts per game (61 against Colorado), attempts per season (372), attempts per career (6,300), completions per game (28 against Oklahoma and Colorado), completions per year (196), completions per career (321), yards per game (439 against Colorado), yards per season (2,476), yards per career (4,045), total offense per game (511) and total seasonal offense.

Team marks, all in passing, included most: completions per game (28), completions per year (197), attempts per game (63), attempts per year (379), yards per game (439) and yards per year (2,051). With a majority of next year's squad being seniors, many new records will possibly be made.

K-State Wildkittens finish season compiling 906 yards total offense

As the 1969 freshman football season closed, the Wildcats posted a 1-3 record, with their only win against the Oklahoma State Cowboy freshmen.

Beginning the season against the KU freshmen, the K-State team dropped a close decision, 14-7, on the rain-soaked Kansas playing field.

In the first home game of the season, the Wildcat freshmen slid by the Oklahoma State frosh, 20-13.

Looking for their second win, the Wildcats traveled to Columbia to take on the Missouri Tiger freshman team. But the 'Cats came far from it as the Tigers blanked the young 'Cats, 43-0.

Nebraska University proved to be too much for the K-State frosh as the Cornhuskers won the final game of the short season, 17-7. The single K-State score came on a one yard drive that capped an 80 yard advance.

During the season the Wildcats compiled 906 total offensive yards, with 175 rushing and 728 in the air. The 'Cats connected 57 out of 143 passes.

Soccer fans see unbeaten year

Opening its 1969 season in October, the K-State Soccer Club met five opponents during the fall and scheduled an additional eight games for spring competition. Under the direction of new full-time coach, Ahmed Kadoum, 51 players reported for the initial fall practices to form this year's squad.

Striving to better last year's record of 8-5-2, the team chalked up five victories against no defeats in its five fall encounters. Meeting the Wichita Soccer Club in its first game, the K-State Soccer Club recorded a decisive 6-0 victory due to efficient passing and defensive work on the team.

Achieving its second road win, the Soccer Club blanked Emporia State, 5-0, before returning to Memorial Stadium, where the following week, they defeated Nebraska by default. Closing out a perfect season, the Soccer Club rolled over KU and MU by the scores of 6-1 and 7-0, respectively.

important factor in breaking open a close scoring contest in basketball.

Wildcats make 8-3 record in non-conference play

The 1969-70 Big Eight Basketball race, according to pre-season pollsters, would be dominated by the defending champion Colorado Buffaloes.

K-State, a young team without a super-star or big man to fill Gene Williams' shoes, was picked to finish in sixth place.

After taking a surprise third place in the Big Eight pre-season tournament, the Wildcats raced off to a 6-0 conference record while the rest of the loop traded wins. Despite dropping two straight road games to Colorado and Iowa State, the Wildcats rallied to a victory over KU to keep their title hopes alive.

After finishing 10-4 in loop play, Cotton's Cats came within a whisper of upsetting highly-ranked New Mexico State at the NCAA Midwest Regionals. The 'Cats ended with a 20-8 mark.

freethrows. Freethrow shooting was not one of the Wildcat's best departments as they made only 65% with several contests riding on freethrows.

Fighting for every rebound, 'Cat forward Jerry Venable leaps high to gain the control of an Oklahoma carom.

Wildcats claim Big Eight award

K-State basketball for the 1969-70 season opened on a winning note, by posting eight wins and three losses in pre-season activity. Coached by Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Wildcat squad saw nine returning letterman, as well as two promising sophomores. Bob Zender and David Hall, vie for the five starting positions in the games.

Following seven weeks of intensive offensive and defensive practice sessions, the Wildcats met Indiana State in their non-conference home opener and won by a 99-63 score. The 'Cats' overpowered Creighton 64-56 the next week before falling to Indiana University 102-95. Playing two contests with Wichita State, K-State won at home 81-69, but lost on the road 73-77. Returning home to play Vanderbilt, the 'Cats won handily 91-78, before traveling to the TCU classic where the team posted two wins and the Pre-Season Tournament where they placed third.

Fighting for their two points against KU's Roger Brown (95), David Hall (33) moves closer to his total of 15 points, topping Brown's total points.

Voted as "Sophomore of the Year," Bob Zender puts the ball in over KU players' heads. The Wildcats stand ready to rebound if the shot misses.

Press gives 'Cats league awards

Awards abounded in the 1969-70 basketball season. Cotton Fitzsimmons, head coach, in his second year at the helm was named "Big Eight Coach of the Year" by both the Associated Press and the United Press International.

Selected for the All-Big Eight first team by the Associated Press was Jerry Venable, a senior. He was also recognized by the United Press International for All-Big Eight's second team. Sophomore Bob Zender was chosen to the All-Big Eight first team by the UPI and also recognized by the AP as the "Big Eight Sophomore of the Year."

Among team honors was Venable's ninth spot on K-State's all-time career scoring list having scored 452 points above the former K-State center Nick Pino. Setting an all-time sophomore high at K-State was David Hall with 276 rebounds credited to him.

Sophomore Dave Hall grabs another rebound to make his game total 10.

One of "Cotton's renegades," Terry Snider, makes a shot in the waning moments of the game against Houston in the NCAA regionals. K-State qualified for the NCAA Tournament by winning the race in the Big Eight.

ball coach, who, after two years as coach, was voted "Big Eight Coach of the Year" by AP and UPI. The Wildcats had just won first in the league.

Frosh end year with 9-3 record

Spurred by Steve Mitchell and Ernie Kusyner, the K-State freshman basketball team completed the season with a 9-3 record. In the twelve game schedule, Mitchell finished six games as high point man and six as top rebounder. Adding to the ability of the duo was the unity of the closely knit team. Without the competitiveness and hustling of all the team members, they could never have finished with a record of 9-3 according to Coach Weigel.

During the year the Wildkittens had several exciting moments. In the Hannibal-LaGrange game, both Mitchell and Kusyner hit 32 points to share in the honors of the 86-69 win. Kusyner broke a freshman record by scoring 46 points against Murray State. That was also a fieldhouse record. The home game against KU, a smashing 78-55 victory, was the first win against KU since 1964. Guard Lindbergh White pulled the Wildkittens ahead of the Nebraska frosh in the waning seconds of the game to win by a score of 75-74.

Knorr's grapplers scramble for fourth in Big Eight

Sporting a 122-96-3 record as the head of the K-State wrestling team, Coach Fritz Knorr brought 11 grapplers back from the squad of 1969 that took 48 matches, to anchor the 1970 K-State team. Included in this group were 13 past letter winners and five grapplers who wrestled over the mark of .500, while four promising freshmen added to the squad's overall balance.

In dual meet competition, K-State compiled a score of six wins and eight losses. The team opened the season on a disastrous note by losing their first four meets to Wayne State, 23-19; Air Force, 19-18; South Dakota State, 34-6; and Oklahoma, 38-0.

K-State then took six of its next seven meets by convincing margins. In the final three contests, the squad once again hit a slump and fell to ISU, NU and Southern Illinois before placing fourth in the Big Eight tournament.

Gary Richards is in dangerous position as he attempts to get out of the grasp of an opponent. Wrestling at 158 pounds, he won six of his bouts.

Using sixteen returning lettermen, the squad appeared in good shape to make a try for the Big Eight title, but lack of timely hitting and errors hurt the K-State squad in numerous closely contested baseball games.

Contemplating a starting line-up is K-State's head coach, Bob Brasher.

K-State's 1970 baseball team experienced a disappointing season following pre-season predictions of a possible championship.

Opening the season in Tulsa, the Cat team won three games against Oral Roberts while dropping three to Tulsa University. Traveling to the Hawaii Invitational Tournament next, the squad played armed forces teams as well as university opponents, winning seven contests and losing three. Splitting their next four games with Colorado and Nebraska, and dropping two to KU, K-State came back to win two of three games from OSC. Losing four games to Washburn and ISU, the Cats collected enough momentum to beat OU two out of three before splitting two with Missouri to close out the season.

One of the team's few bright spots was K-State's relief pitching ace Bob Haney, who gave up but one run in his last seven outings to record a 1.00 ERA and a 4-1 conference record, while having a 1.34, 6-3 overall mark.

Brasher guides team to victory

Beginning his fourth season at the helm of K-State's baseball squad, Bob Brasher, head coach, piloted the 'Cat team from the ranks of the unknown to national prominence as a bonafide baseball powerhouse.

With a number of outstanding returning lettermen, including pitcher Nick Horner, who a year ago was selected to the all-conference team; All-American centerfielder Jack Woosley; and hard hitting shortstop Bob Randall, the K-State team readied itself for the 32 games of the 1969 season.

In pre-conference play the 'Cats discovered just how tough their schedule was by losing six of twelve contests.

Memphis State and K-State split an opening season series by scores of 4-6 and 2-1. Against Mississippi and LSU in two four-game series, the 'Cats split against both opponents, winning four and losing four games. In their final pre-season series, the 'Cats and SMC split games, K-State losing the first 1-0, but winning the finale, 13-1.

ence pitcher during his sophomore year, Horner was plagued with injuries last spring, but was still able to win two games for the Wildcat team.

Netmen take 5 in '70 tourneys

Wildcat netmen completed the 1970 season with five wins and eight losses and in the Big Eight Tennis Meet at KU notched a second place finish.

Opening their season with a victory, the 'Cat squad swamped Luther College 5-1, before dropping a contest to Oral Roberts 0-7. Losing their next four meets to Missouri, Tulsa and twice to Arkansas, the 'Cat squad momentarily broke out of their slump to down Oklahoma Baptist 7-0.

Two more losses were recorded to Kansas and Oklahoma before Washburn fell to K-State by a 7-1 score. A close 4-5 loss to Air Force set the stage for two season ending victories over Nebraska and KU by identical 4-3 marks.

Coached by Karl Finney and playing on new courts, the team had individual records of 7-8 by Dave Hoover, 9-7 by Randy McGrath, 3-11 by Doug Oxler, 6-8 by Steve Snodgrass, 4-10 by freshman Fred Esch and 1-1 by Craig Price.

NU edges 'Cats to take second Going into the final event of the Big Eight outdoor Track Meet, K-State had a chance to pull a second place behind KU. Nebraska edged K-State for second by winning the mile relay for the extra point of victory.

Mike Ross won the javelin event for the third year in a row. Prior to Ross' win, there had only been one other Big Eight javelin champion to win the event three times in a row. Other first places in the meet for the 'Cats came from Ken Swenson in the 880 yard dash and Ray McGill in the high jump.

At the post-season picnic, coach Dodds presented several awards. Voted by the team to be most inspirational track man was Ken Swenson, while most inspirational field man was Ray McGill. Mike Stauffer won the L. E. "Red" Erwin Scholarship Award for having the highest grade point average, 3.86. Captains for the 1970-71 year will be Dave Peterson, team captain, Dale Alexander, track captain and Mike Stauffer, field captain.

Varsity oarsmen take '70 regatta

Sporting a well-balanced rowing crew, the 'Cats faced St. Thomas College, who had already raced twice, for their first match. The K-State crew came through for their first big victory by posting wins in the freshman, junior varsity and varsity divisions. In a singles match, Jettie Condray, who coached the freshman to an undefeated season last year, raced against last year's national lightweight sculling champion, Dick Klecatsky, but lost.

Next match was at Minnesota where again all three crews won easily. In the triangular meet with University of Wisconsin and University of Purdue, the 'Cat crew was unable to come up with a victory in the varsity or freshmen divisions as they placed second and third respectively, while the junior varsity took first.

Final victory came at the Heart of America Regatta where the crew swept to three victories over the University of Washburn and the University of Alabama.

Varsity oarsmen glide to victory in Minnesota, Alabama contests

In compiling one of the best seasons ever, K-State's rowing crews produced clean sweeps in dual races with Minnesota, Saint Thomas and Alabama.

In the first race of the season, the Wildcats took on Minnesota University at Tuttle Creek. The varsity and junior varsity crews eased by the Gophers by six and four lengths respectively.

Against St. Thomas College, both crews swept the meet, but by narrow margins. The junior varsity oarsmen rowed to a narrow 1.8 second victory while the varsity crew squeaked by with a 3.5 second advantage.

Topeka was the site of the 1969 Mid-American Collegiate Rowing Association Sprint Championships where the K-State crews finished second in their respective divisions. During the First Pacific Northwest Championships at Seattle, the varsity 'Cats took fifth.

Ending the season, the Wildcats took on the University of Alabama. The varsity 'Cats again coasted to victory, winning with a margin of 17 seconds.

1969's golf team snags 4th place

In contrast to most other sports, the success of the golf season rides only on placement of the team in the Big Eight Tournament at Ames, Iowa. The 1969 squad finished 4th in the tourney behind only Oklahoma State, Oklahoma and Iowa State.

Doug Gray, the number one golfer on the team, missed qualifying for the NCAA tournament by a single stroke. Competing with Gray on the five man squad were Tim Lowery, Pete Bell, Gary Johnson and Bob Leeper.

Because of the inconvenience and lack of prestige involved in dual meets, the trend toward invitational tournaments has been increasing. Coach Fogler indicated that teams no longer want to take time to travel long distances just to meet one team. Placing high in the rankings in a field of several teams carried more significance than only beating one team. In the future the golf schedule will include almost solely invitational tournaments.

Doug Gray, first man on the Wildcat team, lines up for a putt on number nine in the K-State Invitational Golf Tournament. Tying for third place in the Big Eight, Gray qualified for NCAA by shooting a 75-75-72 round.

Bob Leeper shows his dismay over a chip shot to number four green in the K-State Invitational. Leeper posted a six over par 76 to help the 'Cats take third place in the meet behind powerful Okla. State and Missouri.

Doug Gray shoots 222 on links to qualify for NCAA

After a poor start in the Big Eight Tournament, the Wildcat squad was unable to come on strong enough the final day of competition to escape the seventh place, although number one man on the 'Cat squad, Doug Gray was able to post a 222 total for a tie for third place in the individual scoring. Gray, in taking third, qualified for the NCAA Tournament.

For the first time, K-State was invited to attend two of the major invitationals in the country. The best intercollegiate tournament in the country was the Houston Invitational in which 25 teams participated from all over the country. Another new meet to the K-State schedule was the Great Plains Invitational in Wichita where 17 teams were involved.

Composing the 1970 golf squad were Doug Gray, Doug Meier, Tim Lowery, Bob Leeper, Randy Gelwix, and Tom Shoenbeck.

Senior Tim Lowrey tees off at Manhattan Country Club in practice.

Track captures indoor records

Starting off the season with relatively poor marks individually, the Indoor Track team came back to claim several new indoor records besides capturing their share of tournament honors.

Team members opened the season with losses in dual meets at Missouri and Nebraska. However, relay runners came back to set two world records in the Houston Astrodome Federation Meet. Records were set in both the sprint medley and two-mile relays.

Participating in Big Eight competition, K-State placed second behind the winning KU runners who went on to capture the NCAA crown.

Wildcats posting record marks at the conference meet were Ray McGill in the high jump, Lucie Williams in the high hurdles and Ken Swenson who won both half-mile and mile events.

Don Henderson paces himself in the two mile run of the Oklahoma City Invitational Meet. The K-State team placed second behind the KU squad.

hand-off to Ken Swenson in the KU relays. Swenson held off KU's anchor man to avenge the loss in the indoor meet with a 7:31.6 finish time.

Don Henderson lags behind the field during the Kansas Relays' mile run.

Henderson had more success as the anchorman for the four mile relay.

1969 track team wins in two-mile

Sweeping the two-mile relays at the Texas, Kansas and Drake Relays was the highlight of K-State's 1969 season for Outdoor Track.

Dave Peterson, Jerome Howe, Bob Barratti and Ken Swenson, the two-mile relay team was the first to record a triple win at the three Midwest meets. Their best time was 7:18.3.

K-State nearly made another grand slam in the spring medley relay. After 3:15.6 and 3:20.8 victories at Texas and KU, the team composed of Charlie Collins, Larry Weldon, Terry Holbrook and Ken Swenson took third at Drake.

K-State's high jumper, Ray McGill, and the javelin throwers, gave consistency in the field events. Mike Ross, Roger Collins and Bruce Maxwell placed high in nearly every javelin meet.

Late season injuries deflated the 'Cats' hopes for a strong finish in the league's outdoor meet. They finished fourth.

John Noffsinger, on completing his 800 yard run, passes the baton off to Bob Barratti, the mile runners on the K-State distance medley squad.

Defensive player Donita Davenport attempts to block one of McPherson's scores. K-State lost the game, 51-47.

Girls basketball goes collegiate

Sponsored by the Intramural and Recreation Department, the Women's basketball team competed for a second year as an intercollegiate contender. In past years, the squad played approximately four games, while this year the team played 12 regular season games and in two of the national invitational tournaments.

Any girl interested in playing on the team was eligible. A system of cutting coeds was not utilized, so most of the coeds stayed on the team. Practices began at 6:00 a.m. during the week and at 7:00 a.m. on Sundays.

Sporting an 8-4 record going into the post-season tournaments, the coeds traveled to Boston, Mass. and took seventh in a field of 16 teams. A week later the team went to Amarillo, Tex. where they again took seventh place.

Starter Donita Davenport, one of the team's best defensive players, struggles to keep possession of the basketball from a McPherson opponent.

Traveling teams capture honors

Out of a field of nine tournaments, the K-State Women's Rifle team nabbed top awards in five of the matches and the men's squad took honors at two of the season's matches.

Consisting of four members each, the squad traveled to Oklahoma and South Dakota where trophies were won. At the K-State match expert and marksman trophies were received. The final match was played at Nebraska.

Sponsored by the K-State Union, the 'Cat bowling teams combined with KU, Oklahoma State and Wichita State in a four member area bowling conference for the 1970 season. Traveling approximately every two weeks, the men's and women's teams played each opposing school three times.

'Cat teammates also participated in the Airmail league, a group which sends weekly scores to a central office.

Living groups, clubs compete for intramural titles

Expanded interest in women's sports activities necessitated the appointment of a full-time director for all coed intramurals.

Coeds competed in 10 different kinds of sports which were generally held during the winter and spring months. Included among those groups who placed first in each event were Kappa Alpha Theta in swimming and kickball, members of Alpha Chi Omega in bowling and Goodnow I in basketball.

Women of Kappa Kappa Gamma placed first in volleyball competition and also in the singles division of table tennis. West II took first place in the table tennis doubles matches.

All living groups were matched on a mixed basis with sororities being matched against residences of the coed dormitories as well as independents.

Participation in the 21 individual categories of men's intramurals climbed to record heights. Due in part to increased interest, 12 tennis courts, 8 handball courts and several horseshoe pits were completed for use of intramural activities as well as the various competitive varsity activities.

At the end of competition, Beta Theta Pi finished first in the fraternity division trailed by Delta Tau Delta. In the residence hall division, Van Zile took first with Marlatt II placing second. AVMA took the independent division championship with Smith Scholarship placing right behind them.

As part of the sports expansion program, discussion was initiated concerning a possible new intramural complex designed specifically to accommodate both men's and women's intramurals.

Seniors phone alums for funds

Aiding the Endowment Association with their telethon, senior class officers telephoned alumni in this area requesting donations.

In honor of the Senior class, a special Senior Day was held at the Nebraska home football game. Seniors sat in a special section, were led in cheers by senior cheerleaders and attended a party that night.

Senior class members also functioned at a beer blast and at the Senior Night, the last home basketball game.

With the purchase of their senior activity card, seniors donated money to the senior project fund. This year's project, a 20 foot mobile, will be suspended from the ceiling of the courtyard of the Union addition.

For the first time in the history of K-State, seniors were not required to attend graduation ceremonies.

Alumni help with the telethon, fund raising project to aid the library and scholarships. Student groups helped with the three nights of campaign.

Underclassmen learn to adjust

Representing the largest portion of the student body, the underclassmen participated in all aspects of university life. Summer orientation aided new students in adjusting to the University and stimulated interest in campus activities. Underclassmen supported resident hall events, university interest groups and varsity sports.

Enrollment figures for underclass increased over 1969 with the freshmen as the largest class with 2,898 students. Sophomores numbered 2,665 and 2,367 juniors enrolled. The university ratio of men to women dropped to a one-and-one-half to one figure with the freshmen class tallying 1,629 men and 1,269 women. With the smallest percentage of women enrolled, the juniors had 1,453 men and 914 women.

Approximately 20 per cent of the students were out-of-state residents, an increase of five per cent over the 1969 school year. All fifty states were represented and about 450 students were representatives of foreign countries.
